price that we have not even begun to calculate. But the short range impact of gas prices on the working class people is here and now. When a family must reduce its expenses to survive, the usual things that go are adequate nutrition, health care, and decent housing. These are choices a working class family in this nation should not have to make. After all, we claim that working families are the foundation of our society.

Maybe there was a time when we did not know the consequences of relying on oil products for energy. But, now that we are aware of the drain of the earth's natural resources such as oil, we must increase our investments to find environmentally sound alternatives rather than continue this vicious cycle of controlling foreign oil to feed our consumer greed. There are many paying the price for the international oil crisis. Among those paying a significant price today are low-wage workers. They can't even afford to get to work.

City's needy water, sewer customers may get relief

By JIM ROBINSON
Contributing Writer

Tough times are not new to most of us, but today's $3 a gallon at the pump is taking its toll in unexpected ways.

Columbus residents who get their water and sewer services from the city of Columbus - and are struggling to make ends meet - may be able to get some relief.

There is a program that Columbus City Council and Mayor Michael B. Coleman pushed for, called the Low Income Discount Program, that offers discounts to those who qualify for assistance.

City water and sewer customers, who have qualified for one of a number of state and federal poverty programs, are eligible for a 15 percent discount on their water and sewer bills.

Columbus and suburban residents are eligible to apply for the Low Income Discount Program if they have qualified for food stamps, Ohio Medicaid, Low Income Energy Assistance, Home Energy Assistance, Ohio Works First, Social Security Disability, Public Housing Benefits and Homestead Exemption.

The Columbus Department of Public Utilities also provides a 10 percent discount to senior citizens.

Here's how you may apply for some relief. City of Columbus water and sewer services customers will find Low Income Discount Program applications in with their utility bills over the next several months. Or AT&T phone customers can call 311. Non-AT&T customers will be able to call (614) 645-3111. Or residents can apply on-line at www.columbuswater.com/customer.htm.

Low Income Discount Program applications also are being distributed to local social service agencies, health clinics, food pantries and senior centers. If you believe you qualify, use any of the methods mentioned that apply to your situation.

How long we are going to have to live with $3 (or more) a gallon at the pump is anybody's guess. Let's hope and pray it's not too much longer. In the mean time, if you need help and qualify for the Low Income Discount Program, you can fill out an application.

the state route which could extend from Dayton, Grandview Heights and Cincinnati Township.

Council used the time recently allocated to its legislative agenda to present a plan for the corridor's future, which some likened to northern California's Silicon Valley.

"There's a heck of a future in this corridor, and if we come together, we're going to be able to do great things," council President Matt Habash said.

"We want to make Columbus one of the premier science and technology development areas in the nation."

The city commissioned a $138,000 study last year with the purpose of creating a master plan for the corridor. North Carolina-based O'Brien/Adkins was hired to complete the plan. The firm was instrumental in planning North Carolina's rapidly growing Research Triangle.

"Columbus is the best-kept secret in the country," said O'Brien/Adkins president and CEO John Atkins. "The city already has all the right attributes in place to go forward with the sector corridor."

Atkins said the city's assets include available land, the presence of several reputable research institutions and hospitals, a stable economy, a dedicated community and a good quality of life.

Eminent domain

Task force focuses its attention on blight

By MICHAEL J. MAURER
ThisWeek Staff Writer

The General Assembly's eminent domain task force changed directions May 11, electing to back off an examination of a constitutional amendment to address controversial takings of private properties for economic development.

Instead, the task force focused on blight and compensation to aggrieved property owners.

One of the key questions the task force decided to examine was whether the state should adopt a law that prohibits governments from taking private property from one landowner to give it to another "solely" for the purpose of economic development.

"The operative word would be 'solely,'" said state Rep. Bill Seitz (R-Cincinnati), task force co-chair along with state Sen. Tim Grendell (R-Chesterland).

Task force members said they thought such a provision would be a good strategic move in light of general public outrage against takings.

"I like where you're going with that, politically," said Gene Krebs, director of Greater Ohio, a land use policy organization that supports farmland preservation and economic development.

However, the task force members also acknowledged that such a provision would be essentially meaningless, since it would be rare that any government entity would ever acknowledge only a single purpose for taking private property. "Anybody that could be so stupid as to say that doesn't deserve to take it anyway," Seitz said.

One of the other main grounds that justifies the government's involuntary taking of private land is "blight," and the task force decided to focus much of its attention on how blight is defined and used.

The importance of blight to the question of eminent domain was demonstrated by the progression of the task force's organization of its subcommittees: The co-chairs initially suggested four working groups, but almost no members wanted to serve on any subcommittee except the one that dealt with blight.

As the May 11 meeting began, Grendell and Seitz initially agreed to establish four subcommittees to look at takings procedures; compensation issues, such as whether governments should pay "supercompensation" and homeowners' attorneys fees; the definition of "blight," which allows the government to take homes in blighted areas even if the homes are sound; and a fourth subcommittee to look at the necessity for a constitutional amendment.

After objections from the state director of development, Lt. Gov. Bruce Johnson, and task force member Richard Tranter, a proponent of strong government takings powers, Grendell and Seitz agreed to drop the constitutional amendment subcommittee.

Once the roll call began, however, it became clear that almost none of the task force members were interested in either the procedures subcommittee or the compensation subcommittee. Instead, nearly everyone wanted to participate in how the state would define blight. Faced with such hyped interest, the task force decided to create only two subcommittees, one to examine compensation and procedural issues and a second to examine the meaning of blight.

In addition to deciding whether to ban "solely" economic development takings, the blight subcommittee also decided to examine how blight is defined, what percentage of land within a takings area must be blighted and how home-rule governments would be affected by state law on eminent domain.

The task force was established last year shortly after a U.S. Supreme Court case known as "Kelo" that said local governments could, without violating the U.S. Constitution's protections of private property, force an involuntary sale by private landowners to other private developers.

Proponents of broad takings powers have said the Kelo decision only affirmed decades-old precedents that allow cities to take large swaths of land to clear blight, while proponents of narrow takings powers said the decision marked new territory, allowing private developers to use local governments to their own advantage.

In addition to periodic regional meetings that are being held for public comment outside of Columbus, the task force agreed to meet again May 25 at the Statehouse in Columbus. Its final report, to recommend any changes to state takings law, is due Aug. 1.

Why are the proposed development projects needed?

CMH is an essential transportation resource, centrally located in Ohio and serves as the primary air transportation facility for most of central Ohio. As a result of the evaluation of the airport operations and facilities conducted over the last five years, three major issues were identified which could affect the ability of the airport to maintain its critical airport function in the future:

Through careful evaluation of airport operations and facilities at CMH, three primary needs have been identified:

The need to rehabilitate Runway 10R/28L

The CRAA initiated pavement evaluation and design studies for Runway 10R/28L in 2000. Based on visual inspection of the pavement condition and associated engineering evaluations, the studies provided recommendations to improve the serviceability of the runway. Some areas of the runway were determined to be in need of full depth structural repair.

The CRAA examined two options: rebuild Runway 10R/28L at the same location or build a replacement runway. Reconstruction of Runway 10R/28L will involve a lengthy closure time during which the airport would have to operate with one runway (10L/28R), a constrained capacity and high noise impact situation. At the end of this construction period, the airport will return to its current conditions in terms of airfield capacity and development on-site between the two runways.

The CRAA, recognizing the possibility of the relocation of this runway, decided alternatively to move forward with a short-term runway overlay project (thinner overlay with less asphalt) and to defer larger pavement investments (thicker overlay with more structural value) to a future, more optimum location on the airfield. Furthermore, construction of a replacement runway at a different location would allow the airfield to operate normally during the construction period.

The need to provide long-term airfield capacity, delay reduction during peak operating periods, and airfield efficiency

The primary factors that dictate a runway system's ability to accommodate overall levels of traffic or peak hour traffic include the length of the runways, the orientation and separation of the runways, the navigational instrumentation on each runway end, and the remainder of the airfield infrastructure (taxiways, hold pads, etc.). The CRAA has identified that relocating Runway 10R/28L would provide a larger terminal development envelope and would increase peak period operating capacity.

The need to provide sufficient terminal capacity to accommodate projected passenger levels

The most recent passenger forecasts for CMH predict continued steady growth in terms of passengers and operations for the next 20 years. The CRAA studied a number of possibilities for meeting this demand. An analysis of the existing terminal facilities at CMH found that it cannot efficiently accommodate future passenger demand beyond five million annual enplaned passengers. The limitations of the existing terminal include the lack of necessary baggage make-up areas, the lack of adequate space to provide security screening, and a lack of aircraft gates to meet long-term demand. Current forecasts indicate that with continued steady growth, CMH will exceed five million enplaned passengers in 2018. Therefore, in order to meet the projected long-term passenger demand, the development of a new passenger terminal facility will be required.

What are the advantages of relocating the runway?

Study of options for developing a new terminal found that with the current runway separation, it is virtually impossible to develop a terminal large enough to meet long-term demand and accommodate the necessary roadways, parking, and other support functions. Another disadvantage of the development envelope that exists with the current runway separation is in addressing security concerns. The current site: (1) provides for limited standoff distance between auto parking and the terminal building frontage, and (2) requires the need to place the access roadway under the terminal.

Therefore, in order to obtain the necessary development envelope to accommodate a terminal that will meet long-term demand and allow for other support facility development, the relocation of one of the runways was recommended. Further analysis of the feasibility of moving one of the runways found that relocating Runway 10R/28L to the south was the best option for meeting this goal.

The illustration below shows the development concept.

Projects being considered in the EIS

The runway relocation and the terminal development are the primary projects that are being reviewed in the EIS. In order to accomplish these two projects there will also be the need to complete other projects that will support the two facilities. The list below includes all of the projects being assessed in the EIS.

- Construction of a replacement runway, 10,113 feet long, located 702 feet south of the existing Runway 10R/28L.
- Construction of additional taxiways to support the replacement runway.
- Proposed terminal development (defined as a development area that will encompass Phase I and II of the CRAA terminal development program) examining the number of gates, approximate square footage of the structure, number of levels, and if any are underground, approximate curb frontage, and the number of passengers that the terminal would accommodate.
- Necessary Navigational Aids (NAVAIDS) to obtain a CAT I approach.
- Proposed aviation-related development.
- Associated roadway relocations and construction.
- Parking improvements including both surface lots and parking garages.
- Property acquisition and relocation of residences, businesses, and farms, as necessary.
- Development of air traffic operational procedures for the replacement runway.
- Proposed noise abatement actions (to be assessed in a separate Part 150 Noise Compatibility Study).

What environmental impacts are being considered?

The EIS is being prepared by the FAA to comply with the requirements of NEPA as implemented by FAA Order 1050.1E, Environmental Impacts: Policies and Procedures, and FAA Order 5050.4B, National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) implementation instructions for airport actions. In accordance with these orders the environmental impacts of the proposed development projects will consider the following:

Environmental Consequences

- Air Quality
- Noise and Compatible Land Uses
- Public Properties/Resources (historic properties, architectural, archaeological, and cultural resources; USC Section 303 properties - parks or recreational areas)
- Water Resources (water quality, wetlands, floodplains and floodways, coastal resources, wild and scenic rivers)
- Biological and Natural Resources (fish, wildlife, plants, and habitat, farmlands, natural resources)
- Hazardous and Waste Materials (hazardous waste, solid waste, pollution prevention)
- Social and Community Resources (socioeconomic impacts, environmental justice, children's environmental health and safety risks, light emissions, energy supply, sustainable design and development, construction impacts)

From an initial qualitative evaluation, it is anticipated that Noise, Land Use, Social Impacts, and Historic and Archaeological Sites and USC Section 303(c) Properties are considered to be key issues.

The EIS will specifically review minority and low-income communities to ensure that they are not subject to disproportionately high and adverse environmental effects. Mitigation measures will be developed for adverse impacts created by the proposed actions.

Cumulative Impacts

Any other past, present or foreseeable future actions which may be applicable or pertinent to the proposed development will also be addressed. The proposed development's relationship to other plans, directives and goals of the Columbus area will be studied. The cumulative impacts of all the proposed improvements, when combined with the existing and reasonably foreseeable future (generally 100 years beyond build-out) projects within the area will be considered.

Public Scoping Meetings

What is the Purpose of Tonight's Public Meeting?

Tonight's Scoping Meeting is the first of multiple opportunities that the public will be invited to provide comments on the preparation of an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) for proposed improvements to Port Columbus International Airport (CMH). The proposed improvements include the construction of a replacement for the airport's south runway (Runway 10R/28L), and a new passenger terminal. Detailed information about the proposed improvements will be presented at tonight's meeting.

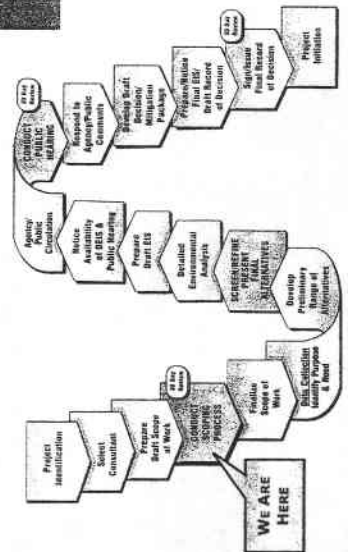

The primary purpose of an EIS is to analyze and disclose significant environmental impacts caused by proposed airport actions and their reasonable alternatives. The scoping process is the initial step in the preparation of the EIS. The intent of the scoping process is to collect comments on the scope of issues to be analyzed in the EIS. Through the scoping process, some issues may also be eliminated if it is determined that they are not significant, or if they have been covered by prior environmental reviews.

The EIS Process

An EIS is conducted by the FAA as the federal agency responsible for ensuring that airport development projects, such as those proposed by the Columbus Regional Airport Authority (CRAA) for CMH, are in compliance with environmental regulations. The potential environmental impacts of the proposed development are assessed in accordance with the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (NEPA). The NEPA process encompasses a body of federal laws that are intended to protect the nation's environment.

In addition to the public comments, input on the proposed development is also sought from local, state and federal agencies. A meeting with these agencies was held earlier today. They will continue to provide comment on the EIS as the study progresses.

The Project Team

The FAA has selected the consulting firm of Landrum & Brown to complete the EIS. Landrum & Brown is a nationally-recognized airport planning firm that has conducted similar environmental studies at airports throughout the country. Landrum & Brown will be assisted by three other firms to complete portions of the study process. This team of consultants is responsible for conducting the technical work for the preparation of the EIS.

The Scope of Work to be performed by the consulting team, and information about the study process will be available throughout the study on the FAA project website listed at the end of this handout.

Members of the consulting team are available at tonight's public meeting to answer questions and provide information about the study process.

Next Steps

The EIS is a federal process that seeks to disclose any environmental effects of proposed federal actions, such as approval and funding of airport improvements. This process is also used to obtain all necessary environmental permits required by federal and state agencies prior to construction.

The FAA issued its Notice of Intent (NOI) to prepare an EIS in the Federal Register on May 1, 2006. It is anticipated that it will take approximately three years to complete the full study process with the FAA anticipated to issue its Record of Decision in April 2009. A draft of the EIS is anticipated to be available in approximately 20 months.

It should be noted that there are project-related items outside the control of the Project Team. Therefore, changes in the project schedule could occur as the study progresses. The schedule will be monitored throughout the study and coordinated with appropriate parties. It will be revised and updated when necessary to remain current with the actual pace of the analysis, and agency coordination and concurrence.

How can I Comment on the EIS Scope of Work?

Tonight is the first of multiple times that the public will be asked to provide comments to the FAA on the EIS. Public comments are important to assist the FAA in making decisions about the proposed development projects at CMH.

There are two ways that you can provide comments tonight. Written comments may be submitted on the comment forms that can be found in the work shop area, or you may provide oral comments to the court reporter that is also stationed in the workshop area.

The FAA welcomes written comments on the scope of the environmental analysis. If you prefer, you may submit comments until the close of business on July 1, 2006 to:

PRESIDING OFFICER: We are opening the public hearing on the Port Columbus International Airport Environmental Impact Statement public scoping meeting on the replacement runway and terminal development and your comments are welcome.

(Recess taken.)

MR. WAYNE GEHRES: What provisions are being made for the present residents in the area to be expanded into? I mean, that is, I notice you will be crossing Steltzer Road and taking up part of the manufactured housing thing. Are they going to provide any assistance in moving?

Also, are they planning to build a tunnel underneath for Steltzer Road or Hamilton Road as they did with Sawyer Road at the airport?

That's pretty much it.

1 about the sound installation program, our neighborhood
2 was the neighborhood that was closest to the airport,
3 and we were excluded from the sound installation
4 program.

5 And let me preference all my remarks by 6 saying that all of our issues pre-date the current 7 administration of Ms. Elaine Roberts the executive
8 director of the airport now. Since Mrs. Elaine 9 Roberts has been the director, she has been 10 community-oriented. She has reached out to the 11 community. She made the airport personnel available.

12 We have one elementary school in the area
13 now, that's East Columbus Elementary School, which I'm 14 a volunteer at, and Mrs. Roberts has extended all the 15 resources to the East Columbus Elementary School. So 16 all of my comments pre-date Mrs. Elaine Roberts, the 17 current executive director of the Columbus
18 International Airport.

19 I'm really concerned about the way our 20 community was left out of the sound installation
21 program. And back some time ago, I took it upon 22 myself to take all the community's issues to 23 Washington, D.C, the Federal Aviation Administration
24 in Washington, D.C. At that time I met with 25 Mr. Bennet who was part of the hierarchy of the sound

FRALLEY, COOPER & ASSOCIATES
(800) 852-6163 (614) 228-0018 (740) 345-8556

1 installation program, I think. And as a result of my
2 visit to Washington, D.C., I found that some of the 3 issues that we are -- that we had addressed to the 4 people that were involved in the sound installation
5 program did not reach the level of Washington, D.C.

6 After saying that, and after my visit to 7 Washington, D.C., I found out that the people that 8 were involved locally that were -- that were in charge
9 of the sound installation program was at that time a
10 Mr. Tony Iacoboni and Mr. Bernie Meleski. And I 11 understand that Mr. Bernie Meleski is still a part of 12 the airport process.

13 And, of course, you are familiar with the 14 sound installation program. The sound installation
15 program was whereby the federal government made the 16 communities that were impacted with the noise from the 17 airport, gave them new windows and doors and air
18 conditioners, things that would compensate for the 19 noise and reduce the noise level in the -- in that 20 particular community.

21 And there were different phases of the sound
22 installation program going back to 1993 -- or '98.
23 But in any event, our community, East Columbus Gateway
24 Community, whose property -- our street, East 12th
25 Avenue, dead-ends at the airport's property, beginning

FRALLEY, COOPER & ASSOCIATES
(800) 852-6163 (614) 228-0018 (740) 345-8556

1 of the airport's property. So we were a neighborhood
2 that was closest to the airport.

3 Going from the airport, we would be going
4 west and coming to the airport, we would be east. The 5 major cross -- the major street that crosses 12th and 6 the airport's property is Cassidy Avenue. And our 7 neighborhood and 12th Avenue is in between Cassidy and 8 James Road, okay?

9 Through numerous environmental assessments,
10 such as you have today, every one, we had a 11 representative there bringing our issues to bear. And 12 as of this date, the residents of 12th Avenue were 13 never afforded the same -- they were never afforded
14 the same consideration that other neighborhoods
15 outside of the airport area received under the sound
16 installation program.

17 In fact, after -- prior to my visit to 18 Washington, D.C., the street -- the next street over 19 from our street, which would be 13th Avenue, after my 20 visit to Washington, they had an addendum to the 21 initial sound installation program. So 13th Avenue,
22 they were afforded the opportunity to take advantage
23 of the sound installation program. That was after my 24 visit to Washington, D.C.

25 It appeared to the residents on Washington,

(800) 852-6163 (614) 228-0018 (740) 345-8556
FRALEY, COOPER & ASSOCIATES

1 D.C. that Mr. Tony Iacoboni, who was the prime person
2 in charge of the sound installation program, was not
3 going to give the residents on East Columbus -- on 4 12th Avenue any consideration under this program. In 5 fact, we never were afforded the opportunity to have 6 one of these meetings in our community.

7 We had a -- we have a community center that 8 would accommodate airport projects such as this but we 9 were never afforded that opportunity. And, again, it
10 was only until Ms. Elaine Roberts took over as 11 executive director of the Columbus International 12 Airport was the community ever given any consideration
13 at all.

14 So as we stand today, we are not -- let me
15 make that clear, we are not -- I'm not and I'm sure 16 the residents of East 12th Avenue do not object to any 17 progress of expansion of the international airport.
18 I -- prior to my retirement, I worked with the 19 Department of Defense and I think that they -- every 20 city should be afforded the opportunity of growth for 21 the airport.

22 One of my visits, I was with the Department
23 of Defense and the reason that I was able to go to 24 Washington and go to the Federal Aviation
25 Administration was because I was familiar with that

(800) 852-6163 (614) 228-0018 (740) 345-8556
FRALEY, COOPER & ASSOCIATES

1 process. I used to visit the Federal Aviation
2 Administration as part of the Defense Department. So
3 I was quite familiar with the process.

4 And after my visits to Washington, after 5 writing different people from regional headquarters in 6 the Federal Aviation Administration, such as in 7 Dearborn, Michigan, we never received any 8 consideration.

9 Now, with the expansion of the airport -- and 10 we're concerned with the sound installation program, 11 how is that going to be implemented and how are we 12 going to be affected since we have never been afforded
13 any consideration under the federal aviation sound
14 installation program.

15 Now, in conclusion, I am of the opinion that 16 every -- all of our issues were never addressed. So I
17 took it upon myself, along with a grant that we had 18 with the Columbus Compact, to document all of our 19 concerns, and I had published the East Columbus Civic 20 Association Special Airport Issues Report and 21 officially released July 20th, 2000. I have sent a 22 copy of this to Miss Kathleen Jones, who is the 23 representative of the Federal Aviation Regional Office
24 in Michigan.

25 My conversation with her just a few moments

FRALAY, COOPER & ASSOCIATES
(800) 852-6163 (614) 228-0018 (740) 345-8556

1 ago indicate that she did receive it and she really
2 had not had time to review it. I have asked her to 3 specifically look at page 12 of the special report and 4 that is an analysis of the community issues. And that 5 documents everything that we have been confronted 6 with.

7 Now with that, I am finished.

8 (Recess taken.)

9 MR. STEVE DIAMOND: They called me and said,
10 well, why would you build a house around the airport?

11 I said, you crazy people, I've lived here 58
12 years. Now when the airport was this big,
13 (indicating), and it's just expanded. I get so much
14 noise over to the house all the time.

15 What else you want to know?

16 MS. DELORES DIAMOND: Tell them about how Net
17 Jet's still going and the airport, the planes, when 18 they go on that north runway, how loud they are.

19 MR. STEVE DIAMOND: Especially when they head
20 east, the airplanes, I hear it. I mean everybody 21 hears it. But for a long time -- now as long as they 22 go west, the sound goes away pretty quick.

23 MS. DELORES DIAMOND: When they come east, 24 it's really bad. This shakes our windows and 25 everything.

1 MR. STEVE DIAMOND: Okay, the last meeting we
2 had -- you say it was five years ago?

3 MS. DELORES DIAMOND: About five or six years
4 ago, yeah.

5 MR. STEVE DIAMOND: They said I was 75-feet
6 away from the noise level. I put new siding, new 7 windows, new back door, I still get the sound.

8 So I want to send somebody over there to take 9 care of it.

10 MS. DELORES DIAMOND: We just want them to 11 know that the noise hasn't stoped over there. They 12 put a wall up at Net Jet, and that wall's not 13 protecting us either because Net Jet goes off all the 14 time, too. You can hear them just as bad as you do
15 the airplanes.

16 MR. STEVE DIAMOND: Now, when was that -- 17 well, it had to be four -- it had to be five years,
18 hadn't it? I throwed such a fit that they brought a 19 guy from -- I thought his -- she named him up here.

20 MS. DELORES DIAMOND: Connecticut or 21 something that put the wall in over here. I don't 22 know his name.

23 MR. STEVE DIAMOND: They set a noise thing in 24 my yard. So I seen him out there one day. I went out
25 there and that jet, you know, revved their motors up

(800) 852-6163 (614) 228-0018 (740) 345-8556
FRALEY, COOPER & ASSOCIATES

1 and he said, my God, man, how can you stand to live
2 here? So they put a wall up, it's probably twenty 3 feet long.

4 MS. DELORES DIAMOND: It's not very long.

5 You know, when they said they was going to 6 put a wall up, I thought they was going to put it up,
7 you know, a long wall. They didn't. It was half of 8 what I thought it was going to be.

9 MR. STEVE DIAMOND: So, you know, the airport
10 keeps lying to me. Sooner or later something's going 11 to happen.

12 MS. DELORES DIAMOND: We are just stuck over
13 there. I mean 670 -- or 270 is here, here's Johnstown 14 Road and here's the airport and we are stuck. It's 15 just --

16 MR. STEVE DIAMOND: So you're going to get
17 noise from cars which, you know, I can understand
18 that. But not noise from the airport.

19 MS. DELORES DIAMOND: So is that all?

20 MR. STEVE DIAMOND: Oh, just like I told this 21 lady here, I said I'm going to call OSHA. We're going
22 to see what's legal and what ain't? Almost done it
23 last time. I told the guy I was going to.

24 I said I want to see your MSD books, on the 25 phone now. What for, he said?

FRALEY, COOPER & ASSOCIATES

1 I said, the noise.
 2 Well, there wouldn't be nothing in there
 3 about that.
 4 I said, yes, there would. So you're telling
 5 me I can't look at them?
 6 No, you can't look at them.
 7 I said, okay, I'll give OSHA a call.
 8 Then some big head man called me and said,
 9 well, we didn't know that was going on.
 10 I'd hate to see them get a 50, $75,000 fine.
 11 They could probably pay it. But it would make me feel 12 better.
 13 That's it.
 14 (Recess taken.)
 15 MS. RICHARDSON: My name is Kimberly
 16 Richardson. They have answered several of my 17 questions, which I was really happy to receive the 18 answers they gave me regarding the plan and the 19 project. And they explained to me why they're 20 starting now because of the projected growth that 21 they're anticipating in the next ten years -- six to 22 ten years.
 23 And I certainly understand that because of 24 the demographics here, Columbus is certainly -- the 25 population here has certainly increased in the last

FRALEY, COOPER & ASSOCIATES
 (800) 852-6163 (614) 228-0018 (740) 345-8556

1 ten years with the Somalian -- Somalian population.
 2 We have 30- or 40,000 Somalians now. On top of the 3 African population and, of course, the Mexicans and 4 the Latinos and the Laotians and all the other people
 5 that have migrated here and, you know, immigrants that 6 are here, that have come here in the last ten years.
 7 So I clearly understand that we are growing.
 8 We are a growing city and we certainly have to -- and 9 the city certainly has to anticipate more growth from 10 what we have seen in the past ten years.
 11 So my initial question is -- was, why did we 12 need a new airport? You know, why are they making 13 this proposal? And they were basically saying that 14 the old airport needs to be reconstructed -- the 15 runways need to be reconstructed. And so they're 16 looking at the investment of renovating those runways
 17 or starting over and building new runways.
 18 And then, of course, is it feasible? Do we 19 have the space environmentally? The land
 20 environmentally? That's why they're here, of course,
 21 the study that's been made. EIS has them doing their 22 study.
 23 But, clearly from talking with the 24 representatives here this evening, I've received a 25 better understanding of why they're proposing to build

FRALEY, COOPER & ASSOCIATES
 (800) 852-6163 (614) 228-0018 (740) 345-8556

another terminal here in Columbus.

Now, Mr. Adams pointed out to me -- he's from Cincinnati, that there are three terminals in Cincinnati which I was not aware of. And so that's a smaller population there. So that's very interesting.

And looking at all the boards here, the water -- and they pretty much have everything up here. The water, the air quality and location. I think they have done a very thorough study so far in my opinion looking at the boards here and the information that's up and available to see. And the maps and everything, the demographics and everything. I think it looks really good.

What else did I want to say? I am leaving here today with an understanding of why the city needs to do this. So I just thank you for the opportunity.

Also, I would certainly encourage the director or the person that organizes the meeting, the next meeting to have refreshments.

(Recess taken.)

PRESIDING OFFICER: The meeting is officially closed at 8:00 p.m.

Thereupon, at 8:00 p.m., on Wednesday, May 31, 2006, the hearing was concluded.

PRESIDING OFFICER: We are opening the public hearing on the Port Columbus International Airport Environmental Impact Statement public scoping meeting on the replacement runway and terminal development and your comments are welcome.

(Recess taken.)

MR. DON PETERS: Well, first of all, like I say, they all know me. I'm a retired airline pilot and I've been, in one form or another, hanging around the airport and their meetings and everything. I go to their meetings and so on.

My comment is there's not enough emphasis on the air side as far as this airport is concerned.
They're more interested in the airline terminal and the parking lots and the hotels than on the air field, runways, navigation aides and such. And if you have an airport, if you have a port of any kind, you need to be able to get the vehicles that carry the traffic in and out in an efficient and reliable and redundant manner or all of the terminal buildings, the warehouses and facilities are not that desirable. So, therefore, I'm glad to see a new runway built.

1 But my comment is that they should preserve
2 the old runway for redundancy and expansion for 3 capacity purposes. Three runways is a whole lot
4 better than two because if one of the two get shut
5 down, you are down to a single runway airport. And 6 that is not going to attract airline operations people
7 to commit to a city.

8 If they want to be a first-class airport,
9 they need to have a first-class air field to bring the 10 ships in and out.

11 Let's see, what else was I -- oh. The fact 12 that they postponed the runway center line lights and 13 they will not have them in place for another six years
14 is a rather poor decision because the runway lights
15 provided a relief to the major weather problem that 16 Port Columbus faces, which is early morning fog. And 17 center line lights would have allowed early morning
18 departures which otherwise would be delayed.

19 If they had put in the center line lights and 20 transmissometers, they would have been able to lower 21 the limits for takeoff to 6 or 700 RVR, which would 22 have been fog conditions.

23 In addition to that, the minimums for landing
24 would have been reduced from 2400 RVR to 1800 RVR
25 which would be very advantageous to them and the idea

FRALAY, COOPER & ASSOCIATES
(800) 852-6163 (614) 228-0018 (740) 345-8556

1 that they are proposing to have a category two landing
2 system, I don't think is cost-effective because they
3 don't really need category two. If they used lights,
4 the landing lights and the transmissometers, it would
5 do much more for them to commit in another six years
6 to a category two landing system.

7 I don't understand why an airport would have
8 five hotels in the middle of the airport and planning
9 to add another two hotels along with a whole lot of 10 parking lots to the detriment of having runways.

11 And so those are my comments.

12 I would like to see this airport become a
13 first-class air field to which airlines would commit
14 their assets and their operations. My view is that 15 they don't have a world class airport which they would 16 like to have. They have a mediocre airport compared 17 to the surrounding cities.

18 So, I don't know that that will make a dent
19 on them. I've been trying to tell them that for 20 years. But they encouraged me to come over and make 21 these comments so. I guess that's -- I can't think of 22 anything else right now.

I hope you will address the issue of noise from the airport. I live in an older residential area north of the airport and sometimes the sound of airplanes taking off is deafening. I can't leave my bedroom window open a little at night as I would like - it's particularly annoying to be awakened by the sound of four or five planes taking off one after the other early in the morning, around 6:30 a.m, including Sunday. There can't be that much traffic at that time of the morning - why can't they take off from a runway that's not near residences. Similarly, there's often very disturbing noise late at night - it has been suggested these are heavily loaded FedEx planes?

I have had visitors in my garden and have had to stop talking because the airplane noise is so loud and close. Often the plane is long gone but the noise continues to "trail" for quite some time.

I understand that the airport needs to expand but I think that controllers, schedulers and pilots need to be reminded that airplane noise has great impact on citizens who live nearby.

Hello,

I attended one of the public meetings about the south runway being moved 800' south at the Columbus airport.

I am the Campus Administrator at Lutheran Village of Columbus, a retirement community located in the direct flight path at 925 N. Cassady Ave. Planes are already extremely loud and with this proposal they would be 800' closer.

I spoke with a Rob Adams of Landrum & Brown who agreed to do noise level testing at our location which I agreed to and would be appreciated.

My main concern is noise for our resident population of over 400.

Please send dates and locations for future meetings.

12th Avenue folks want peace and quiet

By Phil Porter
Dispatch Staff Reporter

William H. Adams and his neighbors on E. 12th Avenue don't worry about setting alarm clocks. Every weekday morning between 5:30 and 6, jumbo jets take off from Port Columbus with a roar that, residents say, just about knocks them out of bed.

"When a plane comes over, you can't talk on the telephone," said Adams, 69, who has lived for most of the past 34 years at 2978 E. 12th Ave. "You just have to put the phone down because you can't even hear. The noise is just earth-shattering."

He and about 20 of his neighbors on the dead-end to Port Columbus' land between Cassady Avenue and Stelzer Road want airport officials to help soundproof their homes with acoustic windows and thick wooden doors.

Adams has complained to officials and legislators that his street was passed over for soundproofing assistance when homes and schools at least 2 miles away were soundproofed.

"So far, our complaints have produced nothing of value," Adams said.

Since 1994, Port Columbus, with funding assistance from the Federal Aviation Administration, has soundproofed 270 of 470 houses that were eligible, said Tony Iacoboni, noise program supervisor for the Columbus Airport Authority.

Since 1985, about $18 million has been spent on such work, which has included Brentnell Alternative School, Ohio Dominican College buildings and Brittany Hills subdivision homes, 2.2 miles west of one of the airport runways. Some homes on E. 13th Avenue also were soundproofed.

But homes on E. 12th have not been eligible for assistance because, according to computer models, the noise level at their homes is 65 decibels, Iacoboni said. Port Columbus is approved for federal noise abatement money to soundproof properties enduring jet blasts of more than 70 decibels.

Iacoboni said at a public workshop last night that a new noise-compatibility program, which the airport will submit to the FAA early next year, could result in expansion of soundproofing to those in the 65-decibel areas.

Several hundred homes, stretching south to portions of E. 11th Avenue, west past Woodward Avenue and north to Drake Road, could be eligible for assistance if the program is approved, Iacoboni said.

The FAA and the airport authority board, which would have to provide a 20 percent match of money, must approve the measure, he said. But because federal noise abatement funds are discretionary, there are no guarantees.

Many residents of E. 12th Avenue are tired of waiting.

"For 41 years, I've lived in the neighborhood, and the noise is getting worse because of bigger planes and more flights," said Fletcher Lee, 67, of 2912 E. 12th Ave.

Airport officials said modern planes actually make less noise, but they acknowledge that the airport continues to get busier and that a possible third runway would add traffic.

Adams questioned whether the high number of retirees, rental homes and property values of $40,000 to $50,000 on the street contributed to the lack of soundproofing.

"Home values were certainly no basis in the programming," said David Whitaker, a spokesman for Port Columbus. "The federal government would not allow it."

East Columbus Civic Association Special Report - Airport Issues

Purpose of Report

In 1997, a group of East Columbus Gateway/Krumm Park residents organized to get East Columbus homes insulated from aircraft noise through the airport Residential Sound Insulation Program. Resident William Adams was chosen to lead the group's effort. Since that time Mr. Adams has attempted to work with Port Columbus International Airport to get East Columbus homes impacted by aircraft noise included in the airport's Residential Sound Insulation Program.

The East Columbus Gateway/Krumm Park community believes it has clearly communicated the basis for its sound insulation needs to the airport. However, based on the airport's response (or lack of response), the community has concluded that the airport has discounted its concerns. In 1999, the East Columbus Civic Association (ECCA) unanimously decided that added attention to the community's aircraft noise issues was needed. ECCA approached the Columbus Compact Corporation to obtain a Neighborhood Advocate who would make an objective review of the community's airport issue(s) and to assist in the identification of possible resolutions. The community is currently working with the Neighborhood Advocate.

This report summarizes the Neighborhood Advocate's findings. It outlines the community's actions and the airport's response to that action. Finally, this report suggests steps for addressing the community's airport issues.

Statement of Community Issues

Aircraft noise and its negative impact on residential structures, environment, and learning is a major concern of the East Columbus community.

Looking at the airport's existing sound insulation program, the community is concerned that all East Columbus homes are not eligible for the airport's Residential Sound Insulation Program. This is especially disturbing since East Columbus is the neighborhood closest to the airport's most active runway, 10R-28L.

Environmental damage from aircraft noise is another community concern. Residents believe homes in East Columbus have been exposed to unmitigated aircraft noise since the 1950's. Therefore, residents believe damage to homes from long-term exposure to high levels of aircraft noise has occurred and that the airport owes them some form of restitution. In addition to structural damage, the community is aware of studies that show that children's learning and academic performance suffers with aircraft noise. The community is also aware that spent aircraft fuel can have serious and negative effects on the health of residents and the physical environment of a neighborhood. East Columbus is concerned that these effects are appearing in their neighborhood.

The airport has not initiated a meeting(s) with the East Columbus Civic Association to discuss these concerns. Neither has the airport initiated technical studies to insure that aircraft noise is not harming the East Columbus quality of life. Consequently, the East Columbus community has concluded that the airport is not a "good neighbor".

Neighborhood Advocate's Conclusion

The interpretation of aircraft noise from a layperson's perspective is not driven by the design dynamics of an aircraft engine. A layperson understands aircraft noise based on the relationship of an aircraft to the human ear. From a layperson's point of view, noise is loudest closest to its source. In everyday life as residents listen to sources such as a radio or stereo this relationship holds true, so residents use this same reasoning to judge the noise level of aircraft. East Columbus residents say that aircraft noise is loudest over their neighborhood because it is the community closest to the airport runway. This opinion has led to the residents' conclusion that all homes in East Columbus should be insulated against aircraft noise before homes farther away from the airport receive such treatment.

On the other hand, the airport counters the residents' position with the aerodynamics of an aircraft engine. The airport states that aircraft noise lessens as an aircraft begins to land and builds as an aircraft begins to takeoff. In particular, the aircraft noise level at takeoff is minimal closest to the airport. It is this phenomena that results in the majority of high noise impacted homes being outside of East Columbus and farther away from the airport. The airport also has noise monitoring reports that support their position.

This difference in the interpretation of noise levels is at the root of the community's airport issues. Unfortunately, this is a technical matter and to validate the airport's or the residents' position requires the expertise of an aircraft and/or sound engineer. Unfortunately, that expertise is not available from the Neighborhood Advocate.

Nevertheless, based on meetings with representatives of East Columbus Civic Association and the airport Planning Department, the Neighborhood Advocate believes that the community's issues can be resolved through better communication. It is the Neighborhood Advocate's opinion that the community's primary issue and sub-issues could have been eliminated if there was more frequent and informative dialogue between the airport and the East Columbus Civic Association. Therefore, the Neighborhood Advocate proposes that a Community-Airport Relations Council be developed.

This council would be a body of the East Columbus Civic Association. Its membership would include representatives from the airport's planning, engineering, and marketing departments. Its purpose would be to build rapport and trust between East Columbus residents and the airport. It would also serve to open a formal line of communication that actively keeps East Columbus residents apprised of airport activities that impact their community. The council would be a vehicle for gaining the community's input on airport operations that affect East Columbus. Most importantly, it would be a means for the airport to remain knowledgeable about leadership in the community and to gather information that enables it to design communication approaches that effectively reach East Columbus residents.

The Neighborhood Advocate could not validate the community's concern about possible damage to homes from prior high levels of aircraft noise nor the environmental impact of aircraft noise on the community. The technical expertise that is necessary to make that determination is outside the services available from the Neighborhood Advocate. Technical expert(s) in the fields of aircraft engineering and environmental studies should be engaged to assess potential damage to homes and the environment resulting from exposure to aircraft noise. Only when that damage is assessed can the appropriateness and level of restitution be addressed and proper environmental remedies be pinpointed.

Background Information

East Columbus Gateway/Krumm Park Community (East Columbus)

Located on the east side of Columbus, about 4 miles from the front door of Port Columbus International Airport, East Columbus has 4,503 residents. This community abuts the western boundary of Port Columbus International Airport. Its boundaries consist of I-670 on the north, the Penn Central Railroad tracks on the south, Alum Creek on the west, and Stelzer Road on the east. Two streets (with approximately 290 homes) dead-end into the fence line of the airport. Those streets are Twelfth and Thirteenth Avenues.

Approximately 30% of its residents are in poverty. The unemployment rate for this community is well above the local and national average of 4%. At close to 13%, East Columbus has one of the highest unemployment rates in Columbus.

The greatest selection of homes can be found in the $25,000 to $75,000 range. However, 45% of the housing is renter occupied, with 53% of the housing being built in 1959 or before. An average of 35% of household income is used to pay rent.

Looking closer at the resident profile, one finds that 70% of the population that is 25 years old and older has a high school certificate or less. The average household size is about two persons and approximately 20% of the area's households are single-parent families. The ethnicity of the community is predominantly African-American (63%). Caucasians make up the second largest ethnic group (35%).

Over the years this diverse neighborhood has developed a very active and committed civic association, East Columbus Civic Association (ECCA). Working under its tag line of "A Community Building Bridges to Improve Our Quality of Life", it has successfully forged numerous partnerships with businesses inside and outside the community. Through the dedication of the association's members, East Columbus has:

- Opened a community center
- Established a computer center
- Formed a block watch
- Begun an after school program
- Removed 90% of the community's graffiti
- Installed pocket playgrounds serving almost 400 children under the age of 12

The ability of the residents to mobilize and focus on securing the needs of the neighborhood, despite its lack of economic resources, is one of East Columbus' greatest strengths. ECCA's spirit and achievement has led the community to citywide awards and recognition from organizations such as the Franklin County Prevention Institute, the Columbus Compact, and the Columbus Foundation.

One of the community's greatest achievements symbolizes the positive change that is underway. Long overdue, approximately $10.6 million dollars will be invested by the city of Columbus in the neighborhood's infrastructure. New sidewalks, curbs, storm sewers, and reconstructed streets will begin to bring the community's physical appearance in line with its neighborhood pride. East Columbus is becoming a neighborhood that is attracting a lot of attention. Nevertheless, the East Columbus/Krumm Park community remains a neighborhood that endures aircraft noise and has gained little attention from the airport.

Airport Runway 10R- 28L and Aircraft Traffic

The airport was unable to provide detailed information on the history of the south runway designated as "10R- 28L". This is the runway that abuts East Columbus. What is known about the runway is that it was built before 1952. Sometime in 1952 it was lengthened. The next major lengthening was done in 1959, when it was extended to its current length of 10,250 feet.

The airport's noise and flight track monitoring system has not been certified yet, and the information that it provides is considered preliminary. However, from tracking the south runway, this system shows that a monthly average of 5,538 aircraft arrivals and an average of 4,691 aircraft departures occur on the south runway. This averages to approximately 60% of the airport's total daytime arrivals and 80% of its total nighttime arrivals passing over and close to East Columbus.

Only a Peak Period Report combining flight arrivals and departures for both of the airport's runways is produced by the airport. The March 2000 Peak Period Report shows that aircraft traffic is relatively constant from 6am-9pm and that peak periods of departing traffic are Monday through Friday at 6am-8am, 10am-11am, and 4pm-5pm. Looking at arrivals, the report shows that most arrivals occur Monday through Friday at 8am-9am, 10am-11am, and 7pm-8pm. Consequently, East Columbus is constantly exposed to aircraft noise from the early morning to late evening hours.

Federal Regulations and Airport Noise Abatement Programs

Part 150 of the Federal Code of Regulations outlines the requirements for airport noise abatement programs. It identifies that residences in the 65LDN to 75LDN noise exposure contours are considered to be eligible for federal assistance under an airport's approved Noise Compatibility Program. Although this noise exposure eligibility range is set, the federal government also gives each airport the discretion to design their noise abatement program to include all or a part of the noise exposure range. The Federal Aviation Administration does not dictate to an airport how it will implement its Noise Abatement Program. Port Columbus International Airport has decided to make its sound insulation program only applicable to homes in the 70LDN.

To address the issue of aircraft noise, Port Columbus International Airport conducted a Part 150 Noise Compatibility Study and Update to recommend measures to mitigate possible adverse effects of aircraft noise. The airport's Noise Abatement Program includes a sound insulation program that is designed to reduce noise in homes that are located in the 70LDN airport noise contour. It is a program of improvements that concentrates on door and window improvements. "Structural repairs, maintenance items, building code violations, rehabilitation work or weatherization needs which are not directly related to Noise reduction are not part of this program."<sup>1</sup>

Participation in the airport's sound insulation program is voluntary. The airport pays for all labor and material costs for the improvements made under this program. There is no cost to the homeowner. On average, eight weeks is involved in completing the homeowner's sound insulation treatments.

The airport invites residents living in the 70LDN noise contour to a forum that gives an overview of the insulation program and eligibility requirements. Given the specific focus of the program, residents or neighborhoods that have not been determined by the airport to be eligible for the sound insulation program are not advised of or invited to such a forum. There are 126 East Columbus homes eligible for the sound insulation program.<sup>2</sup>

Although eligibility is driven by noise contour location, no abatement features are conducted at a home unless the homeowner signs an aviation easement.

<sup>2</sup> Final Technical Report & Management Plan, December 1992, submitted by Maddox-NDD, Inc.

The phasing of the Residential Sound Insulation Program is as follows:

Area	Phase	Year Initiated	Available Funding <sup>3</sup>	Actual Costs
Teakwood Heights	I	1995	$1,800,000	$1,770,875
Oriole Heights	II	1996	$1,191,759	$1,190,156
Brentnell, Middlehurst, Argyle, Taylor Station, Cumberland, Drake, Krumm Park	III	1997	$1,253,200	$1,571,225
Krumm Park/13th Ave, Teakwood Heights, Holt Ave/Argyle Drive, Taylor Station Road	IV	2000	$750,000	Not applicable
Total			$4,994,959	$4,835,904

The last phase, Phase IV, is scheduled for July, 2000.

As neighborhoods are approached about participation in the residential sound insulation program, there are residents that decline participation in the program for a number of reasons. Those reasons range from not wanting to sign an aviation easement to preferring a different style or quality of window. Of the 126 East Columbus households eligible for the airport Residential Sound Insulation Program, only 73 have participated in the program. When there have been funds remaining from a phase, the airport has offered those funds to the next targeted residential sound insulation area. By doing this, the benefits of the program have been made available to residents ahead of their original phasing period. Only phase III had additional funds available. Six homes on 13th Avenue in East Columbus were treated using those additional funds.

Community Actions

The efforts taken to get a greater number of East Columbus homes in the airport Residential Sound Insulation Program span over almost a three-year period. On August 21, 1997, Mr. William Adams, the lead contact resident, telephoned the Columbus Airport Authority to determine the community's eligibility for the airport's sound insulation program.

This was followed by a letter dated February 9, 1998 sent to Mr. Paul Galis, Director of Planning, at the Washington, DC office of the Federal Aviation Administration. This letter was a specific request for a review of the airport's Noise Compatibility Study, and a request for future noise compatibility studies to be "scientifically inclusive, i.e. include 12th Avenue".

May 6, 1998 marked the beginning of letters to legislators requesting assistance. U.S. Senator John Glenn was sent a letter from Mr. William Adams on May 6, 1998. This same letter also was sent to U.S. Representatives Deborah Pryce and John Kasich.

Based on responses received and news coverage, another letter was sent to the airport from the community. This second letter was sent on October 29, 1998. It was written from the lead resident, Mr. William Adams, and was a specific request for the analysis and re-evaluation of his residence for eligibility in the airport's sound insulation program. Cecelia L. Hunziker, regional administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration Great Lakes Region, also received a copy of this letter.

The efforts of the community to bring their concern with aircraft noise to a broader audience happened in December 1998. The impact of aircraft noise on the community grabbed the attention of the media on December 3, 1998. On that date, the Columbus Dispatch ran an article, "12th Avenue Folks Want Peace and Quiet".

In 1999, the East Columbus Civic Association (ECCA), unanimously decided that added attention to the community's aircraft noise issue was needed. It approached the Columbus Compact Corporation to obtain a Neighborhood Advocate who would make an objective review of the community's concern and to assist in the identification of possible resolutions. The community is currently working with the Neighborhood Advocate.

Airport Actions

On March 23, 2000, the Neighborhood Advocate met with the airport representatives, Tony Iachonni (Noise Program Supervisor) and Dave Wall (Planning/Noise Specialist) to cover the concerns of the East Columbus residents. During that meeting information on the windows used in the noise insulation program, aircraft traffic, past community contacts, and future noise activities were covered.

Implementation of Airport Residential Sound Insulation Program

The airport has followed a 1992 management plan in the implementation of its sound insulation program. That plan outlines which neighborhoods are to be treated and in what order.

In the early to mid-nineties, the airport worked with current resident Howard Carter to place a noise monitor in his backyard to track the impact of aircraft noise on East Columbus. A noise monitor was placed off and on in his backyard over a two-year period. The airport worked closely with Mr. Carter and provided him interpretations of the noise monitor's results.

The airport acknowledged that in implementing its noise insulation program, it only contacts those residents whose homes are eligible for the program. To invite residents who are not eligible to participate in the program would be a waste of those residents' time. Each eligible East Columbus homeowner has been invited to attend a workshop in which the sound program's handbook is distributed and questions are answered about the noise insulation program.

The Neighborhood Advocate was provided a pamphlet outlining the specifications of the windows used by the airport in its sound insulation programs. And the Neighborhood Advocate visited a home to validate their use. All windows used in the airport sound insulation program are custom-made for each home. The window manufacturer is Peerless Products, Inc. The 1700 and 6000 series windows, which include casement and slider style windows, are used. The window selection is made by the airport based on a recommendation from an outside engineer who inspects each home in the sound insulation program. Based on the Product Selection Guide produced by Peerless Products, Inc., while the style of windows may be different, the test results show that the insulation quality of the 1700 and 6000 series windows are materially the same.

Airport's Involvement With East Columbus

The East Columbus Elementary School is the Adopt-A-School for the airport. This relationship has existed for at least five years. The Airport Staff has served as judges in student project contests, and East Columbus Elementary School students have enjoyed airport tours. The airport's director of marketing and public relations indicates that the airport has responded to requests that the East Columbus Elementary School has made and certainly would be willing to assist the school in any way that the airport can.

The airport has also selected the East Columbus community for one of its newest state of the art permanently placed noise monitors. A site at the Krumm Park Recreation Center, which is owned by the city of Columbus, has been identified. Negotiations with the city for the monitor's placement are underway.

Analysis of Community Issues

The primary concern of the East Columbus community is that all East Columbus homes are not eligible for the airport Residential Sound Insulation Program. The community finds this especially disturbing since it is the neighborhood closest to the active airport runway 10R-28L. However, this issue manifested several other community sub-issues with the airport. The community's primary and sub issues are analyzed below.

PRIMARY: The airport is not including eligible East Columbus homes in the Airport Residential Sound Insulation Program.

In a letter dated December 11, 1998, Dean Nitz, manager for the Detroit Airports District Office of the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), advised the community that all federally assisted noise compatibility projects at the Columbus Airport have been in the 70DNL or greater noise contour. In addition, it was stated that how an airport undertakes their Noise Compatibility Program is not dictated by the FAA.

In addition, Part 150 of the Federal Code of Regulations outlines the requirements for airport noise abatement programs. It identifies that residences in the 65LDN to 75LDN are considered to be eligible for federal assistance under an airport's approved Noise Compatibility Program. Although this noise exposure eligibility range is set, the Federal Government also gives each airport the discretion to design their noise abatement program to include all or a part of the noise exposure range.

Using its discretion, the airport has established its residential noise abatement program for the 70LDN noise contour. It appears that the airport has consistently applied its discretion.

Sub-Issue 1: The airport is not a good neighbor.

Despite the attention that East Columbus has received from the media and the numerous community awards that it has received, the airport has had no current contact with the East Columbus Civic Association. The airport's last acknowledged contact with the association was in 1993-95 through Howard Carter.

East Columbus is the closest neighborhood to the airport's most active runway, yet no aircraft noise updates or airport development briefings have been held in the community. The Krumm Park recreation Center and East Columbus Elementary School have been in the community for over 20 years. They were the primary community meeting places until 1998; those facilities can hold over 100 people. In 1998, the East Columbus

Community Center was opened which has become the designated meeting center for the community. The airport acknowledges that it has not held any airport informational meetings in East Columbus because it was not aware that facilities large enough to accommodate a public forum were available in East Columbus.

The airport has held briefings on airport noise with the Teakwood Heights community. The Teakwood Heights Neighborhood Association invited the airport to speak to their association and the airport complied. On several occasions, Mr. William Adams has invited the airport to speak to the East Columbus community about the sound insulation program or aircraft noise. The airport has not accepted his invitation because it was not the airport's perception that Mr. Adams represented a governing body of East Columbus residents.

The airport is considering the placement of a permanent noise monitor in the East Columbus community. The city of Columbus is the owner of the land on which the monitor is targeted to be placed. As of the date of this report the airport has not initiated any dialogue with the community to discuss the potential environmental, economic, or aesthetic impact of the monitor on the community.

It is very apparent to the Neighborhood Advocate that little communication between the airport and its closest neighbor exists. The airport does not know and is not working with East Columbus community leaders. Nor has it initiated any action to become familiar with the group. As one of the closest neighborhoods impacted by aircraft noise, the airport has not held any meetings within East Columbus to keep residents apprised of airport developments that affect the neighborhood's quality of life.

Sub-Issue 2: The airport is not responsive to East Columbus Gateway community's concerns.

Mr. Bill Adams, the community's airport issue contact person, began communicating with the airport in 1998. In particular a letter dated October 29, 1998 was directed to the airport. Unfortunately, it was not directed to the attention of a specific person. As of the date of this report the airport has not responded to the October 29 letter. Mr. Adams has copied the airport on numerous letters about the airport Residential Sound Insulation Program that he has sent to legislators. It is the community's opinion that the airport should have responded to these copied letters. The Neighborhood Advocate believes the community's position is incorrect. The airport's receipt of a carbon-copied letter does not mean a response is due from the airport. A direct response requires a direct letter.

In addition, correspondence to the airport has not been on East Columbus Civic Association letterhead. It has been written from an individual, signed as an individual, and written from the context of a single property. This letter writing approach gives the appearance of a concern from a single resident and not from a community. It was the recollection of the community that they had communicated with the airport as an association and the airport has never responded; unfortunately, the community did not have copies of that correspondence.

Sub-Issue 3: The airport is not concerned about the neighborhoods that it affects.

From April 27, 1998 to February 15, 1999, four letters have been sent to Mr. William Adams advising him of upcoming public hearings and workshops on the recommended Noise Compatibility Program. The letters were addressed to "Friend of the Airport" instead of "Mr. William Adams". The community sees the boilerplate letters as an indication of the airport distancing itself from the community. The Neighborhood Advocate agrees that boilerplate letters are not a personal approach and do not facilitate relationship building. Matters affecting a person's home are very personal and a more personalized form of communication would be more suitable. With today's word processing technology, it is as easy to produce a personalized letter as it is to produce a boilerplate letter.

Certified mail is one of the tools used to notify residents of their eligibility for the sound insulation program. Some residents perceive certified mail as the bearer of unwanted news, so they refuse its receipt. By refusing the mail, they will not find out about their eligibility for the airport Residential Sound Insulation Program unless they hear about it from a neighbor. If a resident does not hear about the program from a neighbor, the resident believes that the airport made no contact. It is the Neighborhood Advocate's opinion that adults must be willing to accept the consequences of their actions. If residents choose not to accept certified mail, then they also choose not to be informed about the airport's noise insulation program. The airport should not be expected to spend additional time or money to accommodate persons who are not willing to receive mail through a generally acceptable process.

It is the community's position that the airport has ignored the community's concern with regard to airport noise. However, the Neighborhood Advocate found that on several occasions the airport has placed noise monitors in East Columbus, was actively involved with resident Howard Carter (who the airport believed was a community leader), has adopted the East Columbus Elementary School, and is currently working to locate a permanent noise monitor within East Columbus to track aircraft noise.

At least 95% of the students that attend East Columbus Elementary School live in East Columbus. The East Columbus Elementary School 2000 School Building Report Card<sup>6</sup> shows that the performance of students on the fourth grade proficiency test is as follows:

1998-99	East Columbus Pass Results	District's Average Pass Results
Mathematics	11.3%	26.7%
Reading	34.0%	35.9%
Writing	17.0%	50.3%
Science	15.1%	28.2%

In comparison to other schools in the Columbus School District, East Columbus Elementary pass rates rank as follows:

	East Columbus Elementary's Rank (out of 93 schools)
1998-99
Mathematics	74
Reading	52
Writing	89
Science	67

Studies show that children in schools impacted by aircraft noise do not learn to read as well as children in quiet schools.<sup>7</sup> The community believes there may be a connection between the low performance of the East Columbus Elementary students and aircraft noise. Since most children who attend East Columbus Elementary School also have a home environment impacted by aircraft noise, the community is concerned that the performance of children in the East Columbus Elementary School may be a true indicator of the degree of damage that is being done in the community.

The Neighborhood Advocate finds the poor academic performance of the East Columbus Elementary School alarming. Based on the studies that have been published it appears to be feasible to draw a connection between academic performance and aircraft noise. Because children and their future success is involved, the Advocate believes it would be in the airport's best interest to allocate resources to investigate whether or not aircraft noise is impacting the learning of East Columbus children.

Actions for Resolution

✓ Action 1- Create a Community-Airport Relations Council to facilitate communication and collaboration between East Columbus and the airport.

It is the Neighborhood Advocate's opinion that the community's primary concern and sub-issues resulted because there is no communication between the airport and the community. More frequent and informative dialogue between the airport and the East Columbus Civic Association is needed. Therefore, the Neighborhood Advocate proposes that a Community-Airport Relations Council be developed.

This council would be a body of the East Columbus Civic Association. Its membership would include representatives from the airport's planning, engineering, and public relations departments and East Columbus Civic Association's Neighborhood Planning Committee. Its purpose would be to build rapport and trust between the airport and East Columbus and to open a formal line of communication that actively keeps residents apprised of airport activities impacting the community. Technical experts secured by the airport to investigate the environmental impact of aircraft noise on the East Columbus community would present their findings to the council and receive input from the council on remedies. Another task of the council could be evaluating the feasibility of Action 2 in this report.

The council would also be the vehicle for gaining the community's input on airport operations that affect East Columbus. Most importantly, it would be a means for the airport to remain knowledgeable about leadership in the community and to gather information that enables it to design communication approaches that effectively reach the Airport's neighboring communities.

✓ Action 2- Set a "Good Neighbor" Policy that expands the noise contour eligible for the sound insulation program to include the 65LDN and use excess airport operating revenues (if needed) to fund the expanded noise insulation program.

As mentioned earlier in this report, the airport has the discretion to establish a noise abatement program in contours at and above the 65LDN. Maintaining a quality relationship with airport neighbors should be a high priority for the airport.

The airport can expand its sound insulation program to include East Columbus homes that are in the 65LDN to 70LDN noise contour and still would be able to include the cost to treat those homes under its federal noise abatement funding. Just as it has set by policy that churches, daycares, and schools be given a priority in the sound insulation program, East Columbus residences in the 65LDN- 70LDN can be included in the noise abatement program.

This point is further supported by a limited airport survey conducted by the Neighborhood Advocate. The survey was sent to 25 airports to gather current noise abatement practices at airports. The airports represented facilities in Columbus, in Ohio, in the Midwest region, or of a similar size to the Columbus airport. After repeated attempts to gain responses, a total of nine surveys were completed and returned. A summary of the survey responses follows:

Airport/Location	Residential area within 5 mile radius of airport?	Residents in 65DNL or less included in Noise Abatement Program?	Are those residences eligible for sound insulation?
Columbus Airport Authority Columbus, Ohio	Yes	No	No
Ohio State University Airport Columbus, Ohio	Yes	Yes	Yes
Rickenbacker Port Authority Columbus, Ohio	Yes	Yes	No sound insulation not included in noise abatement program
Midway Airport Chicago, Illinois	Yes	Yes	No
Austin-Bergstrom International Airport Austin, Texas	Yes	Yes	Yes
Memphis-Shelby County Airport Authority Memphis, Tenn.	Yes	Yes	No, sound insulation is not included in noise abatement program
Metropolitan Washington Airport Washington, DC	Yes	Yes	No, sound insulation is not included in noise abatement program
Cincinnati-Northern Kentucky Airport Cincinnati, Ohio	Yes	Yes	Yes
Detroit Metropolitan Airport Detroit, Michigan	Yes	Yes	Yes

The implementation practice of various airports gives insight into how neighboring communities of an airport are generally treated. Based on the responses, it appears that the majority of airports include in their sound insulation program residential areas that are in the 65LDN noise contour.

The average cost per household of the airport's sound insulation program is $17,396. Approximately 290 houses make up the two East Columbus streets closest to the airport's south runway. To date 126 of those homes have benefited from the residential sound program. Therefore, there is at least the potential for 174 additional homes to be included under an expanded sound insulation program.

Traditionally, funding for the airport Residential Sound Insulation Program comes from the airport's capital budget and the federal government. While the federal government provides 80% of the funds for a noise abatement program, the airport through its capital budget provides the remaining 20%. If federal and capital budget dollars are not available to fund the newly adopted East Columbus homes, then the airport's excess operating budget dollars could be used. In 1999, airport income exceeded expenses by $9.46M. Based on the average cost per household of $17,396, the additional 174 East Columbus homes could be treated for $3.03M.

This is an option that should be approached through a collaborative effort with the airport. The Community-Airport Relations Council proposed in Action 1 could take on the evaluation of this option's feasibility as its first project.

- a. U.S. Department of Transportation Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) letter, dated 23 July 1998; subject - Residential Sound Insulation Program (RSIP)
- b. My letter (William Adams) dated 6 May 1998, to the Honorable John Glenn, U.S. Senate, Honorable Deborah Pryce and the Honorable John R. Kasich, members, U.S. House of Representatives, Washington D.C. subject RSIP.
- c. Numerous phone conversations between Mr. Tony Iacoboni, Columbus Airport Authority and Mr. William H. Adams, spokesman for the homeowners of East 12th Avenue, Columbus, OH. Subject RSIP.
- d. Map of Mr. Adams' home on East 12th Avenue, Columbus, OH. The resident's home is situated directly within the air traffic flow. The airport property ends at the 12th avenue street on a direct flight path of incoming and outgoing aircraft.

2. I was advised by reference 1a, that my residence at 2978 East 12th avenue is considered to be eligible for Federal assistance under the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) regulations. Also, reference 1a further recommends that Mr. Adams work with the Columbus Airport Authority (the sponsor) in resolving the issues relating to the Residential Sound Proofing Program adjacent to Port Columbus

International Airport. To date all efforts on my behalf to work with your office have produced nothing of value. In fact, Mr. Iacoboni's letters to reference 1b, provided information on Britany Hills subdivision located outside of our effected area. Also telephone conversation with Mr. Iacoboni; reference 1c, advised that funds for subject programs are discretionary and there is no guarantee that our area will be eligible to receive sound insulation treatments.

3. Since reference 1a, advised that my home would be analyzed and re-evaluated and is considered to be eligible for federal assistance, request your office review our location, reference 1d, and apply to the FAA for added funds under the addendum to FAR part 150 noise exposure maps and noise compatibility program prepared for the Columbus Municipal Airport Authority in July 1996.

4. Immediate reply requested.

RESPONSE TO SPECIAL COMMUNITY REPORT EAST COLUMBUS GATEWAY/KRUMM PARK COMMUNITY AND AIRPORT ISSUES

July 5, 2000

I. The Columbus Airport Authority (CAA) has proactively undertaken a Noise Compatibility Program (NCP) and has consistently and aggressively implemented its recommendations. Any contention that the Airport is not a "Good Neighbor" is simply not supported by the facts.

Airport noise compatibility planning and implementation actions are voluntary. There is no federal requirement for airports to undertake such activities. An approved Part 150 Program is necessary for airports to be eligible for discretionary Airport Improvement Program (AIP) funding.

Port Columbus International Airport was among the first (29th out of 189 airports with NCP's) in the country to have a Part 150 Noise Compatibility Program approved by the FAA. Since that approval on September 21, 1987, the Airport has applied for and received twelve (12) grants from the FAA totaling more than $16.5 million. The following table provides a listing of the Port Columbus noise grants.

Year	AIP Grant Number	Grant Funds Expended	Grant Funds Remaining	Grant Funds Requested
1987	3-39-0025-05	$ 3,901,169
1988	3-39-0025-07	$ 3,015,447
1989	3-39-0025-09	$ 1,739,735
1990	3-39-0025-11	$ 343,962
1993	3-39-0025-16	$ 461,710
1994	3-39-0025-19	$ 1,373,739
1995	3-39-0025-22	$ 1,765,017
1996	3-39-0025-25	$ 1,018,419
1997	3-39-0025-28	$ 1,256,984
1998	3-39-0025-30	$ 376,082	$ 134,347
1999	3-39-0025-33	$ 38,283	$ 711,717
1999	3-39-0025-34	$ -	$ 308,000
2000				$ 252,000
Totals		$ 15,350,607	$ 1,152,064	$ 252,000

Those grants, when combined with Airport matching funds, have resulted in an overall expenditure of $19.4 million on various noise compatibility projects. These expenditures do not include the considerable personnel and equipment costs incurred by the Airport Authority over the last 15 years in the implementation of the Noise Compatibility Program.

A breakdown of noise compatibility expenditures by general project category is provided in the table below. The primary philosophy behind the program implementation strategy has been to assign priority to those projects, which address the most serious noise impacts.

Land Acquisition and Relocation	$ 9,468,000
Residential Sound Insulation	4,836,000
School Soundproofing	3,704,000
Noise and Flight Track Monitoring	590,000
Noise Compatibility Planning	446,000
Engine Run-up Barriers	356,000
Total	$ 19,400,000

In addition to the AIP projects, the Authority has undertaken a number of actions independent of FAA funding:

A 24-hour noise complaint hotline was established. The Airport Noise Hotline has received a total of 2,122 aircraft noise complaints from January 1, 1991 to the present. During that time frame, the Airport has received 35 complaints from the East Columbus neighborhood, or 1.6% of all calls received in the last 9 1/2 years.

In an effort to encourage compatible land use development around airports, the airport sponsored the preparation of Model Airport Noise Regulations by the Mid Ohio Regional Planning Commission in 1991. The model formed the basis for the adoption of the Airport Environs Noise Overlay (AEO) Zoning adopted by Columbus City Council in 1994. The AEO has provided for improved land use compatibility around Port Columbus International Airport, Bolton Field, the OSU Airport and Rickenbacker Airport. The Franklin County Commissioners adopted similar legislation when they created the Airport Environs Overlay District in 1996.

A number of operational measures have been implemented to curtail noise impacts, including:

- no aircraft turns below 3500 feet or within five miles of the runway end,
- no turning of aircraft on visual approach inside the outer marker,
- during calm wind conditions (less than 5 knots) use of Runways 10R and 10L for departures
- the prohibition of training flights for high noise level military aircraft,
- the installation of pilot advisory signage for noise sensitive areas and
- the institution of Runway 10R nighttime departure procedures for propeller driven aircraft.

Actions that have been specific to the East Columbus community include residential soundproofing and noise monitoring.

The Residential Sound Insulation Pilot Program Final Technical Report & Management Plan identified 126 homes in the East Columbus area as eligible to receive sound insulation. Since mid 1996 (when the program was first offered in East Columbus), 82 property owners or 65% have taken advantage of the program. This compares with an 82% participation rate in areas outside of East Columbus.

Seventy-two (72) homes in East Columbus neighborhood have already been soundproofed and another ten (10) will have improvements made this summer. Sound insulation has been offered on at least two different occasions in order to provide those homeowners, who were unwilling or unable to participate in earlier phases, a second opportunity to receive the improvements.

A permanent noise monitoring terminal is scheduled for installation later this summer in Krumm Park. The terminal will provide 24-hour noise data, which can be correlated with radar data on aircraft flight tracks. Both types of information have been very useful in responding to community concerns.

II. Significant public outreach efforts have been an integral part of every major airport planning, environmental or noise compatibility effort over the last 15 years. These efforts are designed to inform and involve a wide range of organizations and individuals interested in the activities of Port Columbus International Airport. East Columbus residents have been a part of the process.

Major projects undertaken during the last 15 years include:

1. Port Columbus International Airport Master Plan Update, August, 1986
2. Port Columbus International Airport Environmental Assessment Report for the Proposed Acquisition of Wonderland, September, 1987
3. Port Columbus International Airport Relocation Plan for the Proposed Acquisition of Wonderland, September, 1987
4. Port Columbus International Airport Part 150 Noise Compatibility Study, December, 1987
5. Relocation Plan for the Proposed Acquisition of Englewood Heights and West Side Properties, October, 1988
6. Port Columbus Residential Sound Insulation Pilot Program Final Technical Report & Management Plan December, 1992
7. Master Plan Update Final Technical Report for Port Columbus International Airport, October, 1993
8. Port Columbus International Airport FAR Part 150 Noise Exposure Maps and Noise Compatibility Program Update, October, 1993
9. Environmental Assessment Report for the Five-Year Development Program at Port Columbus International Airport, August, 1995
10. Master Plan Update Port Columbus International Airport, April, 1999
11. Port Columbus International Airport Part 150 Study Update Noise Compatibility Program, June, 1999

The specifics of the public participation and outreach efforts for each of these projects are part of the public record. However, two projects are important to detail: the Residential Sound Insulation Pilot Program and the most recent Master Plan and Part 150 Noise Compatibility planning process.

Residential Sound Insulation Pilot Program

To encourage Community involvement in the CAA Residential Sound Insulation Pilot Program, the consultant team formulated an extensive community outreach program which included the following elements.

1. Project Advisory Committee - An Advisory Committee was set up to act as a liaison between the Airport and the noise impacted communities. Meetings were set up at different stages of the project to keep the Advisory Committee and thus the communities informed on the status of the pilot program.

2. Mailing List - A mailing list, consisting of the existing Port Columbus mailing list, area churches, names obtained from community representatives and applicants to the pilot program, was compiled and maintained. There were 108 entries on the mailing list, with 18 from East Columbus.
3. Introductory Brochure - An introductory brochure was prepared by the consultant team and distributed by Port Columbus. It included a brief introduction to the pilot program and information on the workshops to be conducted by the consultant team.
4. Newsletters - A total of 4 newsletters were prepared by the consultant team to provide a brief overview of the program, address general development of the pilot program and answer any questions interested residents may have.
5. Homeowner Handbook - The Homeowner Handbook, prepared by the consultant team, served as the program guide for each participant. The handbook identified the various steps of the project and the impact each step would have. Emphasis was placed on the phone numbers of specific team members that appeared at the back of the binder. The role of each team member was identified along with the types of questions that should be directed toward each individual.
6. Community Workshops - Four (4) community workshops were conducted on November 13 and 14, 1991 at the St. Stephen's Community House and the Gahanna Municipal Building. The workshops provided a description of the program's objectives, a discussion of various sound insulation techniques and a forum for homeowners to ask questions.

A total of 79 homeowners applied to be among the eight (8) homes participating in the Pilot Program. Twelve (12) of the applicants were from the East Columbus area. One home from the East Columbus area was treated as part of the Pilot Program.

One of the products of that effort was a management plan, which detailed a phased implementation of sound insulation efforts.

Master Plan Update, Part 150 Noise Compatibility Program Update

Four public workshops were held for the general public. A drop-in workshop format was utilized that consisted of setting up a series of stations covering specific aspects of the Airport Master Plan Update and Part 150 Noise Compatibility Program Update. The public could seek information, ask questions or offer comments. Each workshop covered a 3.5-hour time frame (4:30 p.m. to 8:00 p.m.) that was established to be convenient for the public to attend. Workshops were held on the following dates:

May 13, 1998 at Gahanna Lincoln High School - A total of 50 people attended, with 10 attendees from East Columbus. Comments were received from five ECCA residents.

August 11, 1998 at Brenthell Elementary School - A total of 155 people attended, with 12 attendees from East Columbus. Comments were received from three ECCA residents.

December 2, 1998 at Gahanna Lincoln High School - A total of 44 people attended, none from ECCA. No comments were received from the community.

March 2, 1999 at the Holiday Inn-Airport - A total of 45 people attended, with 3 from East Columbus. Comments were received from two East Columbus residents for entry into the official transcript of the public hearing.

Prior to each workshop, paid display advertisements announcing the date, time and location of each meeting were placed in the Columbus Dispatch, Suburban News and the Call and Post. Press releases were distributed to many media sources.

Letters were sent to community leaders and interested residents from around the Airport. Clary Communications prepared the original mailing list with input from the Columbus Department of Trade and Development and Airport staff. The mailing list was updated periodically with additions or corrections as appropriate. At the conclusion of the project, the mailing list included a total of 351 entries, with 18 residents from the East Columbus area.

Mailed announcements also included a newsletter providing information about the upcoming workshop and a recap of previous workshops.

The total cost of the public outreach effort including consultant services, printing and reproduction, postage and other miscellaneous expenses was more than $126,000.

III. Residences in the 65-70 DNL are included in the approved Part 150 Noise Compatibility Program for Port Columbus International Airport and in the most recent update, which is currently under review by the Federal Aviation Administration.

The table presented on page 14 of the Special Community Report is incorrect. First, the heading of the third column should probably read '65 DNL or greater' not '65 DNL or less.' We believe the designation of 'No' assigned by the Neighborhood Advocate to the Columbus Airport Authority under that column is also incorrect as is the designation of 'No' under the fourth column. If you disagree, please provide us with documentation to support these designations.

A review of the approved Part 150 Noise Compatibility Program would show that approximately 2,700 residences located in the 65-70 Ldn were identified to receive a Stage I program for sealing cracks (5 dBA reduction). In addition, approximately 450 residences in the 70-75 Ldn were listed to receive a Stage II program involving window and door replacement (10dBA reduction).

Following the recommendations of the Noise Compatibility Program, the Airport initiated a pilot soundproofing program and prioritized the residential sound insulation treatments to the most heavily noise-impacted residences, i.e. those homes within the 70-75 Ldn noise contour. With the completion of Phase IV later this year, 314 homes, out of the 410 identified in the Residential Sound Insulation Pilot Program Final Technical Report & Management Plan, will have been soundproofed.

Significant reductions in aircraft noise have occurred as a result of the implementation of a federally mandated Stage III requirement of all commercial aircraft, weighing 75,000 lbs. or more. This requirement occurred as a result of the efforts of Congress, the FAA, airports, cities and community groups, with a considerable expense to the airline industry.

With the phase out of the Stage II, more noisy aircraft, the installation of new, quieter aircraft engines and the hush-kitting of older, noisier engines, many areas of Columbus, Gahanna and Jefferson Township, including most of the East Columbus Civic Association area, are now outside of the 65 DNL contour. Because of this reduction in aircraft noise, homes that may have been once identified to receive Stage I treatments, no longer need sound insulation and are no longer included in the most current plans for sound insulation.

However, 18 residences in the 65-70 DNL have been identified for treatment in the FAR Part 150 Update, Noise Compatibility Program, June 1999. With the anticipated approval of the document by the FAA later this year, it is the Airport's intention to offer sound insulation to these homes.

IV. The Columbus Airport Authority has carefully reviewed and analyzed the environmental impacts related to its plans and development actions. The Authority has undertaken all reasonable and required studies to ensure that the activities of Port Columbus International Airport are in keeping with federal, state, and local requirements. We are unaware of evidence that could substantiate the claims of environmental damage, including structural damage to homes and exposure to aircraft fuel or emissions.

Structural Damage

In a recent review of possible damage to homes due to aircraft noise, Jim Buntin of Brown-Buntin Associates, a California-based acoustic consultant, stated:

"The levels of vibration sufficient to cause structural damage have been well documented, and the criteria to prevent such damage have been adopted by the U.S. Air Force (for sonic booms), and by others for blasting and other construction-related sounds. For noise due to aircraft takeoffs, recent studies by Harris, Miller, Miller, and Hanson (HMMH) established a relationship between airborne sound levels and induced structural vibration. For example, HMMH reported that aircraft takeoff sound levels of 130 to 150 dBA would be required to produce enough vibration so that there is the potential for structural damage.

In studies for San Francisco International Airport, HMMH reported that an aircraft takeoff sound level of 80 to 80 dB would be expected to create perceptible vibration and possible window rattling. These values are about 70 dB lower than required for the potential for structural damage, which is a factor in acoustical energy of 10 to the 7th power (10,000,000).

In the HMMH studies, it was assumed that the takeoff noise was dominated by low frequencies, such as when the receiver is located close to the end of the runway, exposed to noise from the rear of departing aircraft. In areas like East Columbus, noise from aircraft takeoffs contains significantly less energy at those low frequencies, as aircraft are in flight over the area. However, the HMMH data may be used for a worst case estimate of potential effects.

The maximum aircraft takeoff sound levels in areas like East Columbus are likely to be in the range of 80 to 90 dB. In certain cases, noise produced by aircraft takeoffs could induce vibration in windows, which would be perceptible. However, the aircraft noise levels would not be expected to cause physical damage to homes."

Air Quality

The two primary sources of air emissions associated with the Airport are aircraft and motor vehicles traveling to and from the Airport. Exhaust gases from aircraft engines consist mainly of substances that are not regarded as pollutants, such as nitrogen, oxygen and water vapor. However, emissions of carbon monoxide (CO), particulate matter (PM), hydrocarbons (HC), and nitrogen oxides (NOx) occur in varying amounts depending on aircraft engine type and operational mode.

As a part of the Final Environmental Assessment Report for the Five-Year Development Program at Port Columbus International Airport (1995), an air emissions inventory was computed for existing and future conditions in order to evaluate the potential impact on air quality associated with the expansion of the Airport. The inventory included aircraft emissions, airport-related motor vehicle emissions and fuel storage and transfer emission rates. The following table presents the results of that inventory. Please note that aircraft operations totaled 220,012 in 1999, as such, the values represent high estimates from the standpoint of ground based aircraft emissions.

TABLE IV-31

EXISTING (1991) AND FUTURE YEAR (1998) EMISSIONS INVENTORY

Year	Scenario	Annual Aircraft Operations	Carbon Monoxide	Nitrogen Oxides	Hydrocarbons	Sulfur Oxides	Particulate Matter
1985	Existing*	216,274	6.0	2.5	1.3	0.2	0.4
1991	Actual*	212,883
1990	With Hubbing Operations*	351,120	8.5	3.8	2.9	0.4	0.7
1998	Build Alternative	352,300

* As per 1986 Master Plan Update.

* As per 1993 Master Plan Update.

* Includes forecasted operations of ongoing Master Plan Update and projected increase due to terminal expansion.

* Includes emissions from aircraft, fuel supply systems, and on-site motor vehicle emissions.

The results of the air emissions inventory indicate that emissions at the Airport are expected to increase primarily as a result of growth in aircraft operations. Compared to countywide air emission totals from all sources, the Airport should continue to represent less than 4% of all emissions. The results of two microscale dispersion analyses indicate that CO levels in the vicinity of the Airport terminal and the Airport entry roadways remain well within the ambient air quality standard for this pollutant.

On October 11, 1994, then Governor Voinovich issued the Governor's Air and Water Quality Certification certifying that planned airport projects would be located, designed, constructed and operated in compliance with applicable air and water quality standards.

Supplemental air quality impact analysis was performed in August 1995 to address General Conformity requirements. The analysis estimated the change in volatile organic carbons (VOC) and nitrogen oxide (NOx) emissions, both considered precursors to the formation of ozone. The following air quality analysis indicated that the increases of VOC or NOx would not be greater than de minimus values. Again, please note that annual aircraft operations have not reached predicted levels, indicating that aircraft emissions are less than predicted.

FUTURE YEAR (1998 AND 2010) EMISSIONS INVENTORY
Port Columbus International Airport

Pollutant	Year	Annual Aircraft Operations	Aircraft Emissions (Tons/Day)
			No-Build Alternative	Build Alternative	Difference

The Federal Aviation Administration, having reviewed the environmental data, contained in the Five-Year Environmental Assessment issued a mitigated Finding of No Significant Impact on September 22, 1995.

School Impacts

The Airport Authority is very concerned about the impact of aircraft noise on the education of children and young adults. Toward that end the Airport has soundproofed the South Milfin Elementary School, the Brentnell Montessori School and five academic buildings at Ohio Dominican College. The total cost of this effort was $4.5 million.

The East Columbus Elementary School is located at 734 Rarig Avenue. Using data developed during the most recent Noise Compatibility Program Update, the estimated noise exposure level was calculated to be 60.5 DNL for 1998 and 60.3 DNL for 2003. Representatives of the school or from the Columbus Public Schools administration have never contacted the Airport regarding aircraft noise concerns at East Columbus Elementary.

Coffman Associates, as part of the 1993 Noise Program Update, analyzed ambient non-aviation noise exposure around Port Columbus International Airport. Ambient levels are comprised of indigenous noise exposure associated with general urban activity (e.g. traffic on local streets, lawn mowers, air conditioning compressors, outdoor residential activity, etc.) and surface transportation noise exposure from major roadways and railroads. The results show that, in the vicinity of the East Columbus Elementary School, ambient noise levels exceed aircraft noise levels.

Brown-Buntin, in a review of changes to noise criterion for FAA-funded school sound insulation programs, stated that the FAA has adopted an interior noise standard of 45 dBA, measured against the average aircraft noise level (Leq) in the peak hour of aircraft activity during the school day. As part of the School Soundproofing Program, noise level reduction (NLR) values were calculated for three elementary schools. The ranges of NLR by school are as follows:

Brentnell Montessori Elementary School – 24.7 dB to 30.7 dB
Duxberry Park Elementary School – 17.6 dB to 24.8 dB
South Mifflin Elementary School – 21.1 dB to 31.8 dB

Assuming the worst case NLR of 17.6 dB, the noise standard would be satisfied if the peak hour noise level at East Columbus is 62.6 dB or less. Given the insulating nature of the school's heavy brick construction and presence of newer metal windows, it is reasonable to estimate an NLR in excess of 20 dB. When this is combined with an existing noise exposure of 60.5 DNL, it is highly unlikely that the FAA criterion is exceeded.

Noise Monitoring Terminal Location

The Airport Noise and Flight Track Monitoring system consists of hardware and software necessary to efficiently monitor aircraft noise and flight tracks. By using radar data from the FAA ATC, the Airport staff is able to associate noise collected at eight (8) permanent noise monitoring terminals (NMT) with aircraft using Port Columbus International Airport. The flight tracking system provides current data on approach and departure patterns, and assists in the development of future noise abatement alternatives. This permanent noise monitoring system replaces an aging, unreliable portable noise monitoring system and allows Airport staff to respond to community aircraft noise complaints with more knowledge of the offending aircraft than in the past.

BAE Systems is the contractor responsible for installation of the Port Columbus Noise and Flight Track Monitoring system. They have installed approximately 200 NMT's at 20 different airports in the United States. Of all the installations, BAE has never encountered opposition or a request for study of economic, environmental, or aesthetic impacts due to the installation of an NMT. The Authority has chosen the upgraded (and more costly) metal pole for the NMT installation. It is aesthetically superior to the wood telephone pole that is the standard for the NMT installations. BAE has never had any installation challenged by a local community civic association.

The presentation today was very informative and I believe a big plus to the community, keeping them informed of developments at the airport, and helping everyone understand the impacts to the area. Columbus starts at the airport and should show visitors and the Columbus public what they are about to enter as far as how this city is progressing.

Very Informative
Sounds like a good project
It should help with noise quality however I still would like to have my home insulated
I live in Brittany Hills.
Thanks

Concern #1 - by moving the south most runway 700' South, what impact will that produce over & around my home.
on days with low ceiling aircraft noise seems to be higher - how many flights now do will create more noise
comment - I am a friend of the airport -
I do not want any changes to approach or departure routes that put more at increased risk vs my issue of noise.
however I don't want my window of glass staying in a plane a day.

Mr. William H. Adams
2978 E. 12th Ave.
Columbus, OH 43219

Dear Mr. Adams:

East Columbus Civic Association
Special Report - Airport Issues
July 20, 2000

This letter is in follow-up to the above titled report that you provided to the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) on May 25, 2006 and the additional phone calls you have made to the FAA.

As stated in phone conversations with our office, the Part 150 program is a voluntary program administered by the airport sponsor. The Columbus Regional Airport Authority (CRAA) is currently updating the Part 150 Study for the Port Columbus International Airport.

Additionally, you have requested information on the eligibility of sound insulation. The currently approved Part 150 Study (dated 1/10/01) has land use measure (LU-1) to "offer a program for noise insulation of non-compatible structures for non-compatible residences within the DNL 65+ dB contour of the Year 2003 Future Condition Exposure Map, with program implementation, in exchange for an avigation easement." The CRAA would be able to provide you information regarding your eligibility.

In addition, the Vision 100 - Century of Aviation Reauthorization Act, Section 189 states that "The Secretary shall not approve in fiscal years 2004 through 2007 a program submitted under subsection (a) [a noise compatibility program] if the program requires the expenditure of funds made available under section 48103 for mitigation of aircraft noise less than 65 DNL."

The FAA recommends that you continue to address your concerns to the CRAA through the Part 150 update process and participate in the public workshops. The CRAA point of contact for this project is Mr. David Wall. He can be reached at (614) 239-4063.

If you have any additional questions, please contact Ms. Katherine Jones at (734) 229-2958.

Sincerely,

Irene R. Porter
Acting Manager

THE CALL AND POST/THURSDAY, JUNE 29, 2006/PAGE 3A

tion," Clegg said.
Clegg and other opponents of the reauthorization have charged that the reauthorization bill continues to stigmatize southern states for racial problems that happened four decades ago.

The pre-clearance provision, Clegg said, "made sense in 1965. It doesn't make sense in 2006. There is no evidence that disc is a bigger problem now in the covered jurisdictions than it is in the non-covered jurisdictions."

But Hillary Shelton, the Washington lobbyist for the NAACP, disagreed. Racial discrimination in voting remains a problem, Shelton said. And there is ample evidence that it remains a problem in the Deep South. Shelton pointed to Florida, particularly in the 2000 election, to show ongoing problems. There, he said, voting officials moved the polling place around Black Florida A & M University before the November election without telling the students, after there had been aggressive voter registration efforts on campus.

And Shelton said that

BRUSHING TIPS

Q: How should I brush my teeth?

A: Brush your teeth twice a day with a soft-bristle size and shape of your toothbrush should fit your mouth. You should be able to reach areas easily. Use a toothbrush that contains fluoride, which helps protect your teeth from decay.
• Place your toothbrush at a 45-degree angle against the gum line.
• Move the brush back and forth gently in short strokes.
• Brush the outer tooth surfaces, the inner tooth surfaces, and the chewing surfaces of the teeth.
• Use the "toe" of the brush to clean the inside of the front teeth, using a gentle up-and-down stroke.
• Brush your tongue to remove bacteria and freshen your breath. Ask your dentist about using a tongue scraper.
When choosing any dental product, be sure it has been approved by the American Dental Association and your dentist if you have any questions.

The Project Team

The FAA has selected the consulting firm of Landrum & Brown to complete the EIS. Landrum & Brown is a nationally-recognized airport planning firm that has conducted similar environmental studies at airports throughout the country. Landrum & Brown will be assisted by three other firms to complete portions of the study process. This team of consultants is responsible for conducting the technical work for the preparation of the EIS.

The Scope of Work to be performed by the consulting team, and information about the study process will be available throughout the study on the FAA project website listed at the end of this handout.

Members of the consulting team are available at tonight's public meeting to answer questions and provide information about the study process.

Next Steps

The EIS is a federal process that seeks to disclose any environmental effects of proposed federal actions, such as approval and funding of airport improvements. This process is also used to obtain all necessary environmental permits required by federal and state agencies prior to construction.

The FAA issued its Notice of Intent (NOI) to prepare an EIS in the Federal Register on May 1, 2006. It is anticipated that it will take approximately three years to complete the full study process with the FAA anticipated to issue its Record of Decision in April 2009. A draft of the EIS is anticipated to be available in approximately 20 months.

It should be noted that there are project-related items outside the control of the Project Team. Therefore, changes in the project schedule could occur as the study progresses. The schedule will be monitored throughout the study and coordinated with appropriate parties. It will be revised and updated when necessary to remain current with the actual pace of the analysis, and agency coordination and concurrence.

How can I Comment on the EIS Scope of Work?

Tonight is the second of multiple times that the public will be asked to provide comments to the FAA on the EIS. Public comments are important to assist the FAA in making decisions about the proposed development projects at CMH.

The FAA welcomes written comments on the environmental analysis. Written comments may be submitted tonight on the comment forms found in the workshop area. If you prefer, you may submit comments until the close of business on July 31, 2006 to:

Ms. Katherine S. Jones
Federal Aviation Administration
Detroit Airports District Office

Public Workshops

What is the Purpose of Tonight's Public Meeting?

Tonight's workshop is the second of multiple opportunities that the public will be invited to provide comments on the preparation of an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) for proposed improvements to Port Columbus International Airport (CMH.) The proposed improvements include the construction of a replacement for the airport's south runway (Runway 10R/28L), and a new passenger terminal. Detailed information about the proposed improvements will be presented at tonight's meeting.

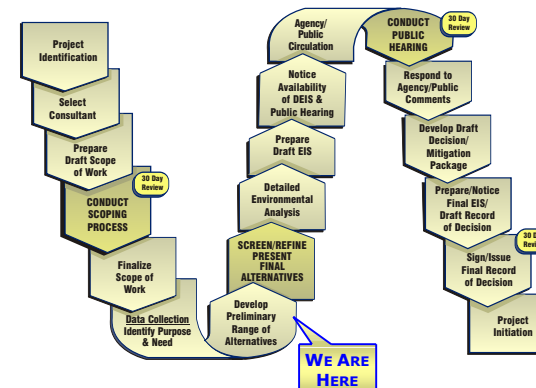

The purpose of tonight's workshop is to receive public comment on the Purpose and Need for the project, and the evaluation of the alternatives that are being considered. Findings on noise impacts anticipated as a result of the proposed project and potential mitigation measures will also be presented.

The EIS Process

An EIS is conducted by the FAA as the federal agency responsible for ensuring that airport development projects, such as those proposed by the Columbus Regional Airport Authority (CRAA) for CMH, are in compliance with environmental regulations. The potential environmental impacts of the proposed development are assessed in accordance with the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (NEPA). The NEPA process encompasses a body of federal laws that are intended to protect the nation's environment.

In addition to the public comments, input on the proposed development is also sought from local, state and federal agencies. A meeting was held with these agencies on May 31, 2006. They will continue to provide comment on the EIS as the study progresses.

The following illustration graphically shows the EIS process.

How was the Need for the Proposed Development Projects Identified?

In 2000, the CRAA completed an Airport Master Plan Update. Based upon the number of passengers forecast to use the terminal over the next twenty years, the Master Plan Update identified the need for a new passenger terminal. In the five years since completion of the Master Plan Update, the CRAA has completed a series of studies to determine the most effective plan to accommodate the construction of the new passenger terminal. The studies are summarized below.

- 2001 CRAA initiates terminal study in response to continued passenger growth and revised security requirements that were instituted after September 11, 2001.
- 2003 Peer Review recommends shifting Runway 10R/28L south to obtain a larger space between the runways for terminal development.
- 2003 CRAA Board accepts recommendation and initiates Airfield Planning and Environmental Overview studies to analyze the concept further.
- 2003 CRAA defers full rehabilitation of Runway 10R/28L in anticipation of relocation project.
- 2005 Airfield Planning Study recommends Runway 10R/28L be relocated 702 feet south of existing Runway 10R/28L.
- 2005 Environmental Overview Study analyzes potential environmental impacts and recommends that an Environmental Impact Statement be prepared due to the likelihood of significant noise impacts.

Why are the proposed development projects needed?

CMH is an essential transportation resource, centrally located in Ohio, and serves as the primary air transportation facility for most of central Ohio. As a result of the evaluation of the airport operations and facilities conducted over the last five years, three major issues were identified which could affect the ability of the airport to maintain its critical airport function in the future.

Through careful evaluation of airport operations and facilities at CMH, three primary needs have been identified:

The need to rehabilitate Runway 10R/28L

The CRAA initiated pavement evaluation and design studies for Runway 10R/28L in 2000. Based on visual inspection of the pavement condition and associated engineering evaluations, the studies provided recommendations to improve the serviceability of the runway. Some areas of the runway were determined to be in need of full depth/structural repair.

The CRAA examined two options: rebuild Runway 10R/28L at the same location or build a replacement runway. Reconstruction of Runway 10R/28L will involve a lengthy closure time during which the airport would have to operate with one runway (10L/28R), a constrained capacity and high noise impact situation. At the end of this construction period, the airport will return to its current conditions in terms of airfield capacity and development envelope between the two runways.

The CRAA, recognizing the possibility of the relocation of this runway, decided alternatively to move forward with a short-term runway overlay project (thinner overlay with less asphalt) and to defer larger pavement investments (thicker overlay with more structural value) to a future, more optimum location on the airfield. Furthermore, construction of a replacement runway at a different location would allow the airfield to operate normally during the construction period.

The need to provide long-term airfield capacity, delay reduction during peak operating periods, and airfield efficiency

The primary factors that dictate a runway system's ability to accommodate overall levels of traffic, or peak hour traffic include the length of the runways, the orientation and separation of the runways, the navigational instrumentation on each runway end, and the remainder of the airfield infrastructure (taxiways, hold pads, etc.). The CRAA has identified that relocating Runway 10R/28L would provide a larger terminal development envelope and would increase peak period operating capacity.

The need to provide sufficient terminal capacity to accommodate projected passenger levels

The most recent passenger forecasts for CMH predict continued steady growth in terms of passengers and operations for the next 20 years. The CRAA studied a number of possibilities for meeting this demand. An analysis of the existing terminal facilities at CMH found that it cannot efficiently accommodate future passenger demand beyond five million annual enplaned passengers. The limitations of the existing terminal include the lack of necessary baggage make-up areas, the lack of adequate space to provide security screening, and a lack of aircraft gates to meet long-term demand. Current forecasts indicate that with continued steady growth, CMH will exceed five million enplaned passengers in 2018. Therefore, in order to meet the projected long-term passenger demand, the development of a new passenger terminal facility will be required.

What are the advantages of relocating the runway?

Study of options for developing a new terminal found that with the current runway separation, it is virtually impossible to develop a terminal large enough to meet long-term demand and accommodate the necessary roadways, parking, and other support functions. Another disadvantage of the development envelope that exists with the current runway separation is in addressing security concerns. The current site: (1) provides for limited standoff distance between auto parking and the terminal building frontage; and (2) requires the need to place the access roadway under the terminal.

Therefore, in order to obtain the necessary development envelope to accommodate a terminal that will meet long-term demand and allow for other support facility development, the relocation of one of the runways was recommended. Further analysis of the feasibility of moving one of the runways found that relocating Runway 10R/28L to the south was the best option for meeting this goal.

The illustration below shows the development concept.

Projects being considered in the EIS

The runway relocation and the terminal development are the primary projects that are being reviewed in the EIS. In order to accomplish these two projects there will also be the need to complete other projects that will support the two facilities. The list below includes all of the projects being assessed in the EIS.

- Construction of a replacement runway, 10,113 feet long, located 702 feet south of the existing Runway 10R/28L
- Construction of additional taxiways to support the replacement runway
- Proposed terminal development (defined as a development area that will encompass Phase I and II of the CRAA terminal development program) examining the number of gates; approximate square footage of the structure; number of levels, and if any are underground, approximate curb frontage; and the number of passengers that the terminal would accommodate
- Necessary Navigational Aids (NAVAIDS) to obtain a CAT II approach
- Proposed aviation-related development
- Associated roadway relocations and construction
- Parking improvements (including both surface lots and parking garage)
- Property acquisition and relocation of residences, businesses, and farms, as necessary
- Development of air traffic operational procedures for the replacement runway
- Proposed noise abatement actions (to be assessed in a separate Part 150 Noise Compatibility Study)

What environmental impacts are being considered?

The EIS is being prepared by the FAA to comply with the requirements of NEPA as implemented by FAA Order 1050.1E, Environmental Impacts: Policies and Procedures, and FAA Order 5050.4B, National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) implementation instructions for airport actions. In accordance with these orders the environmental impacts of the proposed development projects will consider the following:

Environmental Consequences

- Air Quality
- Noise and Compatible Land Uses
- Public Properties/Resources (historic properties, architectural, archaeological, and cultural resources, USC Section 303 properties -- parks or recreational areas)
- Water Resources (water quality, wetlands, floodplains and floodways, coastal resources, wild and scenic rivers)
- Biological and Natural Resources (fish, wildlife, plants, and habitat, farmlands, natural resources)
- Hazardous and Waste Materials (hazardous waste, solid waste, pollution prevention)
- Social and Community Resources (socioeconomic impacts, environmental justice, children's environmental health and safety risks, light emissions, energy supply, sustainable design and development, construction impacts)

From an initial qualitative evaluation, it is anticipated that Noise, Land Use, Social Impacts, and Historic and Archaeological Sites and USC Section 303(c) Properties are considered to be key issues.

The EIS will specifically review minority and low-income communities to ensure that they are not subject to disproportionately high and adverse environmental effects. Mitigation measures will be developed for adverse impacts created by the proposed actions.

Cumulative Impacts

Any other past, present or foreseeable future actions which may be applicable or pertinent to the proposed development will also be addressed. The proposed development's relationship to other plans, directives and goals of the Columbus area will be studied. The cumulative impacts of all the proposed improvements, when combined with the existing and reasonably foreseeable future (generally five years beyond build-out) projects within the area will be considered.

The National President of The Links, Incorporated, Dr. Gwendolyn Lee, announced the $1 million grant to the National Civil Rights Museum to support the mission of the museum.

"We are pleased to announce that this grant will preserve the legacy of a people and a movement that defined social action and social change across this nation," said Lee. "With the deaths of Coretta Scott King and Rosa Parks, women who were stalwarts in the Civil Rights Movement, it is the right moment in time for The Links Inc. to take this historic step in capturing the contributions of those who paved the way for social and economic justice for African Americans."

The funds will be used to support the Link's Educational and Cultural Center will serve as a national resource for teachers and their students to learn about the strategies of non-violence used in the 1960s to foster social and economic justice.

volunteers and program resources to assist in the job of healing the individuals and families injured by incarceration.

Ex-offenders often have a wide variety of needs when they are released, including housing services, family counseling and employment assistance.

Although historically Black churches in the inner city have been most heavily involved in the effort, Collins said the task force is looking to receive assistance from churches all over the state, including rural areas.

Black churches in the inner city "are a group that is traditionally been helping," Collins said. But many offenders come from rural communities, as well, where their problems and concerns may not be as well-known. "There's a large portion of the community that wants to help, but doesn't know how to help," Collins said.

An estimated 3,200 faith-based volunteers are working in the prisons on a regular basis, said the Rev. Gary Sims, who runs faith-based efforts for the Ohio Department of Rehabilitation and Corrections. The Department of Youth Services logs about 5,500 volunteer hours per month from faith-based organizations.

Congress will be Rangel who, as chair of Ways and Means, will have ultimate say-so on any new tax initiatives being pushed by President Bush.

Rangel has already mentioned that he is concerned about the Alternative Minimum late during her tenure in Congress that she has been in the majority.

"I've been in the minority all my life, and it's nice to be in the majority," Tubbs Jones said.

RATE HIKES

"All the satellite communities are meeting with the city of Columbus on a regular basis," Emery said. "We're all looking at ways we can lessen the impact of these rate changes on our citizens, but it's not easy."

In addition to the rate increases, water and sewer customers can expect to pay nearly $2 a month more in surcharges for water and sewer infrastructure improvements in Columbus.

Columbus has been ordered by state and federal environmental protection agencies to complete about $2.5-billion in improvements to its systems. About 10 percent of those costs are being passed on to Columbus suburban customers, Emery said.

To cover that cost, Gahanna residents will see a rate increase of $2.27 a month. The city has already identified more than $6.5 million in storm sewer projects that need to be completed through 2010.

The proposed increase, Emery said, would generate about $250,000 a year in additional revenue and allow the city to begin projects that otherwise would have to wait several years.

"If a decision is made not to make some of this modification to our stormwater utility, it would only delay our ability to get some of these much needed projects," he said. "A lot of these are projects that have come forth and we've gotten more details on since we began the stormwater utility."

Council is expected to introduce legislation authorizing changes to charges on Nov. 20. The earliest changes could take effect on the increase to $4.65.

COTA looks to future with sales-tax approval

By MARK MAJOR
ThisWeek Staff Writer

COTA administrators have a busy month ahead of them. The passage of the Central Ohio Transit Authority's 0.25-percent sales tax levy means the authority has to begin making plans to spend the estimated $44-million it will generate annually.

Though they will present their "2007 as-is" budget to their board Dec. 20, COTA officials plan to make changes by January that will allow them to expand service before the middle of the year, said William Lhotka, the authority's president and chief executive officer.

"Thanks to the passage of this levy, we can begin improving services with the May service change," Lhotka said Monday after learning of the levy's victory.

Monday's announcement of COTA's victory came 20 days after voters went to the polls Nov. 7. Initial results put COTA ahead by a 350-vote margin in Franklin County.

Because 38,500 absentee and provisional ballots in Franklin County had yet to be counted when the polls closed, Lhotka and his crew needed to wait until the vote was certified Nov. 27 to learn the fate of the levy. On Monday, the levy's margin of victory in Franklin County grew to 771 votes.

Franklin County voters did not decide the issue alone. The levy had to win a majority of supporters in Franklin County, as well as the areas of Delaware, Fairfield and Licking counties served by the authority.

But because yes vote was dragged down by losses in Delaware, Fairfield and Licking counties, the levy's overall margin of victory was a little more than 6,200 votes. With a final tally among all counties of 189,925 to 183,866, the levy won by about 1.6 percent, exceeding the 0.5-percent margin necessary to avoid an automatic recount.

When the sales tax begins to be collected in January 2008, it will double the authority's revenue from sales taxes to about $99 million.

Public Workshops

What is the Purpose of Tonight's Public Meeting?

Tonight is the third public meeting being held to solicit comments on the findings of an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) being prepared for proposed improvements to Port Columbus International Airport (CMH). Proposed improvements include the construction of a replacement for the airport's south runway (Runway 10R/28L) and a new passenger terminal.

The purpose of tonight's workshop is to provide information on the various alternatives that are being considered for the construction of the proposed projects and information that has been obtained during the early review of the potential environmental impacts of the alternatives.

The EIS Process

Before development of any of the proposed projects can begin, they must undergo a detailed review to ensure that they are in compliance with environmental regulations. This process is called an Environmental Impact Statement. The Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) is responsible for ensuring that airport development projects, such as those proposed by the Columbus Regional Airport Authority (CRAA) for CMH comply with the applicable environmental regulations. The potential environmental impacts of the proposed development are assessed in accordance with the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (NEPA). This body of federal laws is intended to protect the nation's environment.

In addition to public comments, local, state and federal agencies also provide input on the proposed development. Coordination with the agencies will occur throughout the EIS study process.

The following illustration graphically shows the EIS process.

Why are the proposed development projects needed?

CMH serves as the primary air transportation facility for most of central Ohio. The proposed development projects being considered in this EIS are needed to ensure that CMH can continue to maintain its role as an essential transportation resource well into the future.

Careful evaluation of airport operations and facilities at CMH conducted over the past five years has identified the need to:

- rehabilitate Runway 10R/28L;
- provide long-term airfield capacity, delay reduction during peak operating periods, and airfield efficiency; and
- provide sufficient terminal capacity to accommodate projected passenger levels over the next 20 years.

Evaluation of the pavement condition of Runway 10R/28L determined that some areas of this runway are in need of full depth/structural repair. The CRAA examined two options to accomplish the needed repairs: rebuild Runway 10R/28L in the same location or build a replacement runway. Full reconstruction of the runway would require a lengthy closure time, require the airport to operate with capacity constraints during construction, result in higher noise impacts during construction and would not result in additional airfield capacity. The second option, relocation of the runway, would allow the airport to operate normally during construction and increase peak period operating capacity. At the same time, it would open a larger envelope for terminal development, allowing the CRAA to develop the terminal facilities forecast to be needed to meet the growth in passenger demand over the next 20 years.

Projects Being Considered in the EIS

Although the runway relocation and the terminal development are the primary projects being reviewed in the EIS, there are other projects that will need to be completed to support these two facilities. The list below includes all of the projects being assessed in the EIS.

- Construction of a replacement runway, 10,113 feet long, located 702 feet south of the existing Runway 10R/28L.
- Construction of additional taxiways to support the replacement runway.
- Proposed terminal development (defined as a development area that will encompass Phase I and II of the CRAA terminal development program) examining the number of gates, approximate square footage of the structure, number of levels, and if any are underground, approximate curb frontage, and the number of passengers that the terminal would accommodate.
- Necessary navigational aids (NAVAIDS) to obtain a CAT II approach.
- Proposed aviation-related development.
- Associated roadway relocations and construction.
- Parking improvements (including both surface lots and parking garage).
- Property acquisition and relocation of residences, businesses, and farms, as necessary.
- Development of air traffic operational procedures for the replacement runway.
- Proposed noise abatement actions (to be assessed in a separate Part 150 Noise Compatibility Study).

In compliance with NEPA, one of the requirements of an EIS is that a full range of alternatives to the proposed project are also to be considered. Information about the range of alternatives being considered in the EIS is available at tonight's workshop.

Forecast

A forecast of enplanements and aircraft operations was prepared for this EIS for 2012 (the opening year of the runway) and 2018 conditions. These projections of activity at CMH are used in the EIS to assist in determining the potential impacts of the proposed development. Two operating scenarios are presented in the forecast and described below.

Base Case Scenario: The Base Case Scenario includes projected passenger and operations growth at the airport using the best available data related to national and local trends in aviation. This scenario represents a relatively conservative view of the future activity levels at the airport. For 2012, the Base Case Scenario projects 4,215,000 enplaned passengers and 241,600 operations, which is a 25 percent and 15 percent increase over current levels, respectively.

High Growth Scenario: The High Growth Scenario represents the Base Case Scenario plus additional growth brought on by the operation of a low-cost carrier at CMH. Recently, Skybus Airlines announced their intention to start operation in the U.S. with their primary hub being CMH. This type of airline may be extremely successful at CMH and therefore could have a major impact on the number of passengers and operations at CMH in the future. This scenario represents a relatively aggressive view of the future activity levels at the airport. For 2012, the High Growth Scenario projects 6,846,000 enplaned passengers and 288,400 operations, which is a 103 percent and 37 percent increase over current levels, respectively.

Preliminary Results of Environmental Studies

In an environmental documentation process, the proposed development is reviewed for potential environmental impacts in eighteen categories that are identified in FAA Order 1050.1E, Environmental Impacts: Policies and Procedures for Considering Environmental Impacts, and FAA Order 5050.4B, National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) Implementing Instructions for Airport Actions.

In addition to the impact categories listed below, any other past, present and foreseeable future actions which may be applicable or pertinent to the proposed development will also be addressed. The proposed development's relationship to other plans, directives and goals of the Columbus area will also be studied. The cumulative impacts of all of the proposed improvements, when combined with the existing and reasonable foreseeable future projects with the area will be considered. Projects that are within five years beyond the build-out of the proposed projects are generally considered reasonable foreseeable.

To date, baseline data has been collected for all of the impact categories. Detailed analysis of the noise impacts of the various alternatives for construction of the proposed development has been carried out in the Part 150 Noise Compatibility Study that is being simultaneously conducted with the EIS.

Detailed analysis of the potential impacts to historic, architectural, archaeological and cultural resources, as well as potential impacts to wetlands and fish, wildlife, and plants has also been completed. Information on the findings of these analyses is available at tonight's workshop. There are approximately 0.75 acres of direct impacts to wetlands and 592 feet of direct impacts to streams. A preliminary review of the project area found several archaeological sites and 43 historic sites (3 are on the National Register of Historic Places (NRHP) and one is eligible for the NRHP. No threatened and endangered species have been documented within one mile of the project area.

Next Steps

The FAA issued its Notice of Intent (NOI) to prepare an EIS in the Federal Register on May 1, 2006. It is anticipated that it will take approximately three years to complete the full study process with the FAA anticipated to issue its Record of Decision in April 2009. A draft of the EIS is anticipated to be available to the public in approximately 20 months from the issuance of the NOI.

The next steps in the EIS process are to complete the detailed environmental analysis of the various environmental impact categories and to assemble a draft EIS document.

It should be noted that there are project-related items outside the control of the project team. Therefore, changes in the project schedule could occur as the study progresses. The schedule will be monitored throughout the study and coordinated with appropriate parties. It will be revised and updated when necessary to remain current with the actual pace of the analysis, and agency coordination and concurrence.

A specific date has not been set for the next set of public workshops at this time, but they are anticipated to occur in the Spring of 2007. Dates and locations for these workshops will be published as soon as they are determined.

How can I Comment on the EIS Scope of Work?

To night is the third of multiple times that the public will be asked to provide comments to the FAA on the EIS. Public comments are important to assist the FAA in making decisions about the proposed development projects at CNH.

The FAA welcomes written comments on the environmental analysis. Written comments may be submitted tonight on the comment forms found in the workshop area. If you prefer, you may submit comments to:

RE: Comment Form from 12-6-06 Public Workshop in Columbus, Ohio on Environmental Impact Statement

Whitehall Parks and Recreation Department, in conjunction with Gahanna Parks and Recreation Dept., Columbus Recreation and Parks Dept., Franklin County Metro Parks and the Friends of Big Walnut Creek Watershed Group, are teaming up to develop a plan to connect their bike/walking trail systems along Big Walnut Creek.

I attended the Port Columbus International Airport Workshop and had a lengthy and informative discussion with Bernie Maleski. A lot of our discussion centered on how construction of the runway would effect the lay-out & operation of the golf course located to the east of the airport. He explained that 14 of the 18 holes would have to be realigned due to the runway approach lights needing to be relocated further south on the course. I explained to Bernie how are team had discussed the possibility of wanting to construct a portion of the trail along the west side of the creek which borders the golf course. Sections of the bank of the east side of the creek near the golf course were not wide enough due to a highway being so close to the creek.

We would like to be able to work with the Port Authority to come to some agreement to allow us to build on the west side of the creek near the course. Being to allow to work this out would eliminate a major stumbling block.

Linking these trails together between Columbus, Gahanna and Whitehall would be a major accomplishment to improving the general bike trail system on the east side of Greater Columbus.

Thank you for your time.

Next Steps

The next step in the EIS process is to refine the alternatives that have been carried forward for further review and to complete the detailed analysis of the various environmental impact categories required under NEPA for each of the alternatives identified for further analysis.

The EIS process began in May 2006 when the FAA issued its Notice of Intent (NOI) to prepare an EIS in the Federal Register. It is anticipated that the full study process will take approximately three years to complete, with the FAA anticipated to issue its Record of Decision in April 2009. A draft of the full EIS is anticipated to be published in early 2008. Project-related items outside the control of the project team could impact the study schedule. The schedule will be monitored throughout the study and coordinated with appropriate parties. It will be revised and updated when necessary to remain current with the actual pace of the analysis and agency coordination and concurrence.

A specific date has not been set for the next set of public workshops at this time, but they are anticipated to occur in the summer of 2007. Dates and locations for these workshops will be published as soon as they are determined.

How can I Comment on the EIS Scope of Work?

Through the fourth of multiple times that the public will be asked to provide comments to the FAA on the EIS. Public comments are important to assist the FAA in making decisions about the proposed development projects at OAH.

The FAA welcomes written comments on the environmental analysis. Written comments may be submitted in light of the comment forms found in the workshop area. If you prefer, you may submit comments to:

OBVIOUSLY THE RUNWAY IMPROVEMENT WILL BENEFIT OUR CITY AND COUNTY. OUR CONCERNS ARE WITH THE INCREASED NOISE LEVELS THIS PROJECT WILL CAUSE. CURRENTLY WE ARE COMFORTABLE
INSIDE OUR HOME. HOWEVER, WHEN WE USE OUR PATIO, IT IS IMPOSSIBLE TO HEAR ANYTHING WHEN AN AIRPLANE
FLIES OVER! HOW WILL WE REMEDY
THIS PROBLEM?

We need to continue to monitor the whole Butternut Hills Area. All the area should be sound proofed.
We all hear the planes noise and it is loud, loud, loud.

We are trying to keep up our neighborhood. I feel the environmental committee could help us continue by supporting our efforts. Such as helping us with our driving ways etc. Some people is sharing things you have done for some but not others. There are times you stop 3 houses and then the next person does not receive help. That is not fair - please be consider. Think about your own family. would you please at least read these papers

Comments may also be submitted by fax at (734) 229-2950 or via e-mail to CMHEIS@faa.gov. An address of the property owner is going down. Our concerns are as follows:

1. The runway ending at our property line and the fuel dumps being close to our homes, the damage to our property and homes and the damage to our law from the noise, and fuel dump close to our homes and the damage to people that have cold disease? It would make their condition worse.

4. Increase in crime and the risk of it would bring in.

5. How long will this process take? When do we have to move to be able to sell our homes?

6. When is all this taking place??

Subject: Port Columbus Environmental/Replacement Runway Project

To Whom It May Concern:

I went to your workshop on Hamilton Road yesterday and was very disturbed!!

I have several concerns:

Some, I have already given to Katarine S. Jones and they were as follows:

In and aside of the property value issue: our concerns are as follows and some were added:

1. The runway ending just East of our property line on 3192 E. 13th Avenue. Needless to say, if and when this happens: wouldn't it be better to buy the other four houses just East of Sterling Road on E. 13th Avenue. Instead of stopping at the four houses right before Sterling Road: because, this is going to throw our property values right down the drain and we will not be able to sell our homes. I really do not know why they have to fly south over these homes in the first place: after 40 years of getting along without it.

2. The noise increase and damage to our ears. Not to mention broken plaster in the walls, windows, etc. The air planes signals interfering with garage door openers and our TV reception.

3. The increase in crime and riff raff like gang activity from building those parking lots close to the run way. And, than there is that fuel dump you are moving close to the new runway not far from these homes. What are the chances of that fuel dump exploding all over the place and taking out a whole city block?

4. Residents that are already suffering from COPD--that fuel dump close by is not going to help.

5. What about the planes flying over low enough to see the pilots, now. Believe me! I have witnessed that myself by waiving to them and they waived their wings back at me. If they had been any lower they would have crashed in that field they were flying over at the time.

And speaking of crashes--what happens if they crash into one of these homes? Or, does that appear to be your concern?

6. We were not told how long this process would take and how long a notice that we would have to move.

7. I am really concerned about my mother: who is suffering from Stage 5 Alzheimers and has recently lost her husband and my father. Her surroundings have to remain the same for her to feel safe and now she feels that you are taking that away. They have lived here for over 40 years and worked hard to keep it looking nice. The Airport even let Dad out the grass in the field behind us: so that, they would not have to do it and he did it religiously. Now, you want to take all that away. Who wants to live in a noise tunnel of the magnitude of being on that air field? Not you, I am sure. Well, we don't either. It is bad enough now. Especially, when planes have buzzed the house: when, I was a teenager.

8. Will they buy these houses for what they are worth or what they want to pay: after, all the damage is done?

9. How does eminent domain come into play here?

I thank you for your time in reading this.

Sandra Davis

Next Steps

When all of the comments have been received, a Final EIS document will be prepared, which will include responses to all agency and public comments. The Final EIS is anticipated in late 2008, with the FAA issuing its Record of Decision in April 2009.

How can I Comment on the EIS?

The EIS process is designed to encourage public review and comment. Public comments are important to assist the FAA in making decisions about the proposed development projects at CMH. In addition to the information available at tonight's workshop/hearing, a Draft EIS document has been prepared and is available for public review at the following locations:

Columbus Regional Airport Authority
Port Columbus International Airport
Administrative Offices
4600 International Gateway
Columbus, OH 43219

City of Gahanna

Environmental Impact Statement

Port Columbus International Airport

June 11 and June 12, 2008

Public Workshop/Hearing

What is the Purpose of Tonight's Public Meeting?

The final Public Information Workshop/Public Hearing is being held tonight to invite comments on the findings on the Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) being prepared for proposed improvements to Port Columbus International Airport (CMH). Proposed improvements include the construction of a replacement for the airport's south runway (Runway 10R/28L), a new passenger terminal, and other support facilities.

The purpose of tonight's Workshop/Hearing is to provide information on the Purpose and Need for the proposed projects and findings of the review of the alternatives being considered to accomplish the proposed projects.

The EIS Process

Before development of any of the proposed projects can begin, they must undergo a detailed review to ensure that they are in compliance with environmental regulations. This process is called an EIS. The Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) is responsible for ensuring that airport development projects, such as those proposed by the Columbus Regional Airport Authority (CRAA) for CMH, comply with the applicable environmental regulations. The potential environmental impacts of the proposed development are assessed in accordance with the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) of 1969. This body of Federal laws is intended to protect the nation's environment.

In addition to public comments, local, state and Federal agencies also provided input on the proposed development. Coordination with the agencies has occurred throughout the EIS study process.

The following illustration graphically shows the EIS process.

One of the most important elements of the EIS process is to develop the Purpose and Need Statement. The Purpose and Need Statement concisely summarizes why each element of the proposed development program is needed. It serves as the basis upon which all alternatives to the proposed projects are evaluated. Alternatives that do not meet the Purpose and Need are excluded from more detailed environmental review. The purpose of the proposed development being evaluated in this EIS is to meet the following needs:

- The need to reconstruct Runway 10R/28L

- The need to provide long-term airfield capacity and delay reduction during peak operating periods
- The need to provide sufficient terminal capacity to accommodate projected passenger levels
- The need to provide sufficient ancillary facilities to support the projected increase in air transportation demand
- The need to enhance the human environment by reducing noise impacts on the surrounding communities

Projects Being Considered in the EIS

The runway relocation and the terminal development are the primary projects being considered in the EIS. There are also other projects that will need to be completed to support these two facilities. The list below includes all of the projects being assessed in the EIS.

- Construction of a replacement runway, 10,113 feet long, located 702 feet south of the existing Runway 10R/28L.

- Construction of additional taxiways to support the replacement runway
- Proposed terminal development (defined as a development area that will encompass Phase I of the CRAA terminal development program) examining the number of gates, approximate square footage of the structure, number of levels, and if any are underground, approximate curb frontage, and the number of passengers that the terminal would accommodate
- Necessary navigational aids (NAVAIDS) to obtain a category II (CAT II) approach
- Proposed aviation-related developments
- Associated roadway relocation and construction
- Parking improvements (including both surface lots and parking garages)
- Property acquisition and relocation of residences, businesses, as necessary
- Development of air traffic operational procedures for the replacement runway
- Proposed noise abatement actions (assessed in a separate Part 150 Noise Compatibility Study)

Review of Alternatives

In compliance with NEPA, one of the requirements of an EIS is that a full range of alternatives to the proposed project is also considered. Information about the range of alternatives being considered in the EIS is available at tonight's workshop. These alternatives are screened to determine if they meet the airport's needs based upon their environmental impacts, operational advantages and disadvantages, and cost. The most viable alternatives are carried forward for detailed environmental review. The range of alternatives that have been developed considers no-action, off-site alternatives, and on-site alternatives to the sponsor's proposed project. The no-action alternative includes no changes to the existing airport. This would not meet the Purpose and Need for the project, but according to NEPA regulations must be carried forward for detailed analysis. The no-action alternative serves as the baseline upon which other alternatives are evaluated for environmental impacts.

On-site Alternatives

The FAA has developed and evaluated on-site runway alternatives. Evaluation criteria include the ability of the alternative to meet the purpose and need for the project as well as operational, environmental and cost considerations.

Runway Development Alternatives

Runway Development Alternatives
The following alternatives for runway development were fully evaluated in the EIS:

- Alternative A No-Action
- Alternative C2 Relocate Runway 10R/28L 800 feet to the south
- Alternative C3 Relocate Runway 10R/28L 702 feet to the south

The alternative shown in bold in bold is the proposed alternative to the FAA.

Summary of Impacts

No Action Alternative
In the 2012 Conditions, 893 housing units are in 65 DNL (336 have either never been eligible for sound insulation/assessment, or were previously eligible for sound insulation but have not yet been insulated). No physical impacts would occur due to no development occurring in this alternative.

Alternative C2a

In the 2012 Conditions, 725 housing units are in 95 DNL (which is the level that the FAA identifies as significantly impacted). As a result, 406 homes will be impacted by the Airport's Sound Insulation Program. Physical impacts due to this alternative are reconfiguration of the Airport Golf Course, relocation of Stetler Cemetery, acquisition/relocation of 36 properties on East 13th Avenue, and demolition of Buildings 3 & 7 of Air Force Plant 95 which are eligible for National Register of Historic Places. These buildings would also require additional remediation during demolition due to hazardous materials. In addition, 0.65 acres of wetlands and 1,005 feet of stream would be impacted. Also, increased storm-water due to increased impervious surfaces would be contained in a new groundwater detention basin.

Alternative C2b

In the 2012 Conditions, 507 housing units are in 65 DNL (which is the level that the FAA identifies as significantly impacted). As a result, 269 homes will be

The physical impacts due to Alternative C2b are the same as C2a.

Alternative C3a

alternative is cost. In the 2012 Conditions, 700 housing units are in 65 DNL (which is the level that the FAA identifies as significantly impacted). As a result, 363 homes will be impacted by the Airport's Sound Insulation Program. Physical impacts due to this program are reconfiguration of the Airport Golf Course, relocation of Stetler Cemetery, acquisition/relocation of 36 properties on East 13th Avenue, and demolition of the Ramp Tower on Building 7 of Air Force Plant 85 which is eligible for National Register of Historic Places. One hangar would require additional remediation during demolition due to hazardous materials. In addition, 0.65 acres of wetlands and 1,005 feet of stream would be impacted. Also increased run-off due to increased impervious surfaces would be contained in a new stormwater detention basin.

Alternative C3b

Alternative C3b
In the 2012 Conditions, 473 housing units are in 65 DNL (which is the level that the FAA identifies as significantly impacted). As a result, 247 homes will be added to the Airport's Sound Insulation Program. The physical impacts due to Alternative C2b are the same as C3a.
